All Wage-Earners Pay Into Job Fund

OTTAWA—Everyone on wages or salary will pay into the unemployment insurance fund under the plan presented to the government Thursday by the Gill Royal Commission.

Contribution rates under the present plan would remain unchanged, but a new category would be added for those earning more than $50 a week. Contributions from this group—including high-salaried executives—was estimated at $1.05 a week.

The committee also said the fund should be operated on equal contributions from employers and employees—without any government contribution. Under the present plan, the government puts up 20 cents for every $1 contributed by employers and employees. This amounted to $55,000,000 in the 1961-62 fiscal year.

Also proposed was an increase in the rates of benefit to about 60 per cent of earnings for claimants with a dependant and to about 45 per cent of earnings for claimants without a dependant. The top benefit payment would be $48 a week for a jobless worker whose earnings had been $80 and who had a dependant.

This would be the ceiling for benefits—even for an employee who had been earning far more than $80 a week.

The maximum duration of benefits would be 26 weeks, not 52 weeks as allowed now. Insured workers unable to find jobs after regular benefits ended would qualify for help from the government's extended benefit fund. The rate of benefit would be the same as under the insurance plan but would be available up to a maximum of 39 weeks. If a worker was still jobless after using up his insurance benefits and the extended benefits, then his case would be considered individually and help provided on a basis of need.

Court Accepts Case Against South Africa

THE HAGUE (Reuters)—The World Court rejected four preliminary objections to its jurisdiction in the case, raised by South Africa and argued last October. The case was initiated more than two years ago when Ethiopia and Liberia alleged South Africa had not "promoted to the utmost the material and moral well-being and social progress" of the people of South-West Africa.

South Africa administrators South-West Africa, a former German territory, under a mandate from the old League of Nations.

Christmas Just Might Be White

If you had asked the weatherman Thursday, he might have gone out on a green limb as a Christmas probability.

Today he's not so sure, because of a sudden, dramatic break in the weather pattern flowing into the corner of B.C. from the north.

Now it looks like colder temperatures between now and Christmas Day. If they drop slowly, Christmas should be relatively mild and green—if they collapse suddenly, you can dream of a white Christmas.

"Right now, it's a toss-up," says the official weatherman. But he does know now for sure that Saturday will be the shortest day of the year, marking the beginning of winter in the northern hemisphere.

At 15 minutes after midnight tonight, the sun will start its journey north from the Tropic of Capricorn, and the days will gradually become longer.

Epidemics Chronic In Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Two Cuban physicians who fled their home and reported today there is "medical chaos" in Cuba.

Speaking as shipments of millions of dollars of medical supplies were prepared for possible shipment to Cuba in return for rebel invasion prisoners, Dr. Marcos Antonio Romeu of Havana, said in an interview:

"There is a 90-per-cent shortage of foreign-made pharmaceuticals in Cuba. And there is an almost absolute absence in most categories of those manufactured in Cuba. Antibiotics are not even produced in Cuba nowadays."

Romeu fled Cuba by boat a few weeks ago.

Dr. Pablo Guerra Hernandez, who was a pediatrician in Havana Infants Hospital, said: "Epidemics in Cuba are becoming chronic. There are signs that the death rate is going up almost daily. This is because of scarcity of medicines and the undernourished state of the people due to food shortages. Child epidemics have caused deaths by the thousands."

Hernandez fled with Romeu.

Parks Work For 1,080

OTTAWA (CP)—This year's winter works program in national parks will cost $2,000,000 and provide seasonal jobs for about 1,080 workers, the northern affairs department announced today.

Her Balancing Act Saves Lives

Mrs. Shirley Dowell says she used to "waste a lot of time" every morning drinking coffee with her friends.

But she hasn't been doing this for the past month. Instead she has been one of the hardest working and, probably the best organized housewife in Victoria.

Mrs. Dowell is the back-room girl behind the Times appeal for "Friendship Dollars for India."

NASSAU, Bahamas (CP)—

Prime Minister Diefenbaker arrived here by plane today from Ottawa to join President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan who concluded their Bahamas talks today.

Diefenbaker's RCAF jetliner touched down a Windsor Field on a bright sunny day with the temperature at 75 degrees.

The Canadian prime minister was greeted by the governor of The Bahamas, Sir Robert Stapleton, and a colorful special guard of honor of The Bahamas police force.

As Diefenbaker stepped from the plane the guard of honor began to play O Canada.

Diefenbaker walked forward from the landing ramp and received an official salute, then was greeted by Sir Robert.

He reviewed the guard, returned to a low platform where he received a second salute, then stepped to microphones and delivered a short address.

Diefenbaker said he planned to talk with Macmillan about "everything that has happened in the international sphere" since the Commonwealth prime minister's conference in London in September.

Diefenbaker said he also hoped for further discussions on his plan for a world trade conference.

He recalled that Kennedy had accepted the plan—put forward at the Commonwealth conference—in principle.

His main point on the ECM was that the Canadian government felt further commonwealth conferences should be held whenever Britain completed agreement on tariffs to be placed on goods affecting the present preferential tariff enjoyed by commonwealth countries.

Canada's stake in any move to heighten the tariff against entry of commonwealth goods to Britain, Mr. Diefenbaker was planning to emphasize again, was some $900 million in annual sales to Britain.

Polaris Weapons Offered France

NASSAU (AP)—President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan announced today a decision to create at once a nuclear armed force and put Polaris-armed British submarines in action under the North Atlantic Treaty Organization banner by 1970.

The far-reaching agreement to give the Western alliance a broadened nuclear shield takes effect in two stages:

1. The United States and Britain agreed to set aside immediately an undisclosed segment of their bomber forces for use by NATO which would decide the emergency missions and targets.

2. The United States agreed to provide Britain with intermediate-range Polaris missiles—minus warheads—for use on British submarines.

Earlier in London the British cabinet agreed to the plan on the U.K. role as a nuclear power.

Britain to Provide Warheads

The earliest date at which Britain could begin buying American-made Polaris missiles would be 1970, since no specially equipped submarines could be built before then. Britain will pay for all missiles supplied but will not share U.S. development costs of $2,500,000,000.

The British will furnish their own Polaris warheads. Both the United States and Britain placed one condition on commitment of nuclear forces to NATO. The two countries reserved the right to employ independently bombers and Polaris submarines assigned to NATO, in any case involving "supreme national interests."

The agreement represented a long step toward the solution of two problems which have plagued the two countries for many months:

1. To give Britain an acceptable substitute for the "now discarded" Skybolt which would have been launched from Britain's Vulcan bombers. Macmillan insisted that Britain needed nuclear-capable missiles in order to preserve her status as a front-rank world power.

2. It marked a first step toward possible resolution of the problem of western European nations developing independent nuclear forces. The Nassau agreement provides a framework under which France, Britain and other Western allies can pool their nuclear punch under common direction.

A secondary feature of the agreement was a resolution that both leaders are of one mind "on the importance of increasing the effectiveness of their conventional forces on a world-wide basis"—something the United States has been seeking.

Macmillan rejected the Skybolt plan. It was understood he was leery of putting Skybolt in the British arsenal because nobody knew with certainty what the ultimate cost might be or whether an effective Skybolt could be developed.

Hounddog Missile Turned Down

The president also offered Britain the Hounddog, a relatively short-range air-to-ground missile. Macmillan and his advisors did not want Hounddog because of technical difficulties in adapting it to British use.

The communiqué on Kennedy's and Macmillan's agreement said they assessed the significance of the agreement in this way:

"In strategic terms, this defence is indivisible and it is their conviction that in all ordinary circumstances of crisis or danger, it is this very unity, which is the best protection of the west."

The president and the prime minister also discussed a wide range of other topics, including East-West relations in the aftermath of the October Cuban crisis, and the communiqué said they "joined in the hope that a satisfactory resolution of this crisis might open the way to settlement of other problems outstanding between the West and the Soviet Union."

The two Atlantic leaders paid particular attention to the present state of negotiations for a treaty to end nuclear tests. They reaffirmed their intention to seek agreement with Moscow on this issue "in the hope that this agreement would lead on to successful negotiation on wider issues of disarmament."

On the Common Market, the prime minister told President Kennedy about the present status of negotiations for British membership, and the president reaffirmed U.S. interest in "an early and successful outcome."

The two leaders also discussed the Chinese Communist attack on India with special consideration to the way the two governments might assist the Indian government "to counter this aggression."

Centennial Flashback

THIS DAY IN VICTORIA - 1862

DECEMBER 21
The steamships Robert Lowe and Tynemouth have been sold by Mr. Lindsay to parties in San Francisco who intend to run a line of first-class steamers between that city and Hongkong. They have also purchased the steamer Scotland which will run between San Francisco and Honolulu.

The mail steamer Sierra Nevada arrived in Esquimalt Harbor this morning with 30 passengers and 80 tons of cargo from San Francisco. She made the run in 63 hours—one of the quickest runs ever made on this route.

The electorate of Victoria approved a referendum permitting city council to borrow $5,000 to improve the conditions of the highways. The vote was 74-5.

CRANHAM, Eng.—Mrs. Beaumont Drake, an animal lover, thought it only natural to bring her sick horse, "Boy," into her house until he got well.

But then, she said today, it was a bit of a problem getting rid of him.

"I know people think I am a little mad," Mrs. Drake said. "But Boy had the colic from eating snow and it was a case of me sleeping in the field with him or him coming into the house with me."

She said she covered the living room carpet with straw, led the horse in through the French windows and bedded him down.

"Boy settled down in front of the fire and I gave him a pillow for his head," she said. "Then I lay down on the sofa."

"Several hours later he woke up with a snort. There was a wicked twinkle in his eye and I knew he was better."

He was so much better, she said, that he ate a plate of cookies, a vaseful of flowers and half a loaf of bread before she put him out of the house.

But Boy had grown used to the domestic life. The next night he was back at Mrs. Drake's house, demanding to be let in again for the night.

When she refused he attacked her front door with his hooves and bit off the doorhandle.

Mrs. Drake said she finally got him to go back to his stall by giving him a cup of tea spiked with beer.

PARIS—On the heels of Mosa Lisa, another famous lady of France will make her first voyage to the New World; Brigitte Bardot.

A spokesman for BB, as celebrated here as ML, said the curvaceous blonde star will travel to New York in February for personal appearances in connection with her latest film, "Le Repos du Guerrier."

Until now, Miss Bardot has refused firmly all offers to work or appear in the U.S.

COLESBORNE, Eng.—Lord Milford, Britain's only Communist peer, said Thursday he will not take his seat in the House of Lords.

In a statement issued from his farm home here, Milford said he would not apply for the writ to the House of Lords which would be necessary if he was to take the hereditary seat awaiting him there.

He called the House "undemocratic, unrepresentative and a stronghold of reaction" and said it is "used for sabotaging all progressive measures."

Milford, 60, inherited the title when his father died Dec. 7.

OTTAWA—The Senate heard Thursday night that the trouble with a federal-provincial conference on a new flag is that Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland wouldn't go for any design that does not have lions rampant.

Nonetheless, Senator Jean-Francois Pouliot (Liberal—Quebec) bravely waved a flag he thought would be a dandy. It was red with a green maple leaf in the centre.

He held it aloft for a good five minutes and pointed out that Newfoundland, Nova Scotia and Quebec already had their own flags.

While he did not predict opposition from Nova Scotia and Quebec, he felt strongly that Premier Smallwood would settle for nothing less than lions.

Senator John G. Higgins (PC—Newfoundland) rose in defence of the Newfoundland premier—observers noted this departure from the days he sat in the provincial legislature—and told Senator Pouliot Newfoundland's flag was "very old" and "I don't think Mr. Smallwood devised it."

"It was old before Canada was civilized," he said.

SAIGON, Viet Nam — Communist North Viet Nam's radio station broadcast a special Christmas program to United States servicemen today, urging them to go home to their families.

To the accompaniment of melancholy violin and piano music, Radio Hanoi's honey-voiced woman announcer cooed for a half-hour on the far-from-home-at-Christmas theme.

"You won't be able to dance with your beloved this year," said the announcer, dubbed "Hanoi Hanna" by the few servicemen who listen to the program.

WOODSTOCK—Dairy farmer Jack L. Griffin confirms the sale of a collection of Canadian and Newfoundland coins for $72,500.

The collection of about 1,000 coins, including those of Canadian mint dating back to 1858 and Newfoundland mint to 1865, was sold to Louis Biro of Princeton, Ont., a tobacco grower.

Sterilization Ban Denied by Lawyer

VANCOUVER (CP)—A lawyer says there is no law that forbids sterilization of persons in British Columbia.

The president of the British Columbia division of the Canadian Medical Association, says his association regards sterilization of men and women for other than a sound medical reason illegal.

Gordon Dowling and Dr. William McClure were commenting on a newspaper story which said an Edmonton doctor performs five sterilization operations a week on healthy married men.

Mr. Dowling said after research he could find no law prohibiting sterilization so far as criminal law is concerned.

"And it would hardly be an assault or trespass where the operation was properly consented to and the release given to doctor by both husband and wife."

"In provincial statutes there is no reference to it other than the Sexual Sterilization Act dealing with inmates of mental institutions, which permits sterilization of mental defectives after proper inquiry by a board of eugenics."

He said expert where a doctor had not obtained permission from a patient and his wife he can find no cases where doctors have been liable for damages for such an operation.

"The medical association has never specified what law or statement of the law is the source of their opinion so far as either statutes or case law precedent."

Dr. McClure said in a telephone interview from Mission the association has been told by the best legal advice that "we have not a scrap of protection whatsoever in the courts."

He said he knows of several men from his community who have gone to Bellingham or Seattle for a perfectly legal sterilization operation.

ALDERMEN TO INSPECT CITY POLICE STATION

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow Thursday said he would arrange a tour of the city police building for city council so they could see for themselves "that the building needs a facelift."

He joined with Mayor R. B. Wilson in convincing council to approve a city police commission recommendation that an architect be engaged to survey what structural alterations should be carried out to improve the building.

B.C. Hires Overseer On Peace River Dam

B.C. Hydro has hired a construction expert as a special overseer for work on the Peace River power project.

Hydro co-chairman Dr. Gordon Shrum said Gordon B. Morris, 49, has started work already.

He has been hired away from Perini Pacific Ltd., the big construction firm which has been working on such government projects as the Port Man Bridge.

Mr. Morris was general manager for the firm. His new title will be construction manager for B.C. Hydro.

"This appointment will bring to the Peace project the practical experience that will be complementary to our engineering groups," Dr. Shrum said.

Mr. Morris will work out of B.C. Hydro headquarters in Vancouver. He will make frequent trips to the site of the power project near Hudson Hope, where work will start next spring on the main Portage Mountain dam.

Mr. Morris will work out of B.C. Hydro headquarters in Vancouver. He will make frequent trips to the site of the power project near Hudson Hope, where work will start next spring on the main Portage Mountain dam.

He has been hired away from Perini Pacific Ltd., the big construction firm which has been working on such government projects as the Port Man Bridge.

Mr. Morris was general manager for the firm. His new title will be construction manager for B.C. Hydro.

8. Per Cent Gain in GNP

By ALAN DONNELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—A rise in national output this year of nearly 8 per cent—perhaps more—was indicated today by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

The guarded forecast was made in a report showing that in the year's third quarter the economy registered a 1.7-per-cent gain in Gross National Product to an annual rate of $40,256,000,000. Higher prices accounted for about one-third of the increase from the second quarter.

Looking ahead to take a tentative measure of the economy's performance for the whole of 1962, the bureau indicated it will outstrip the seven-per-cent gain forecast in last spring's federal budget.

Even with no expansion in the final quarter of the year, it said, there would be a 7.9-per-cent growth this year in Gross National Product—value of all goods and services produced. This would mean a GNP averaging $39,755,000,000 compared with last year's $36,844,000,000. The full year would be up 8.2 per cent to $39,865,000,000.

GNP RUNS AHEAD

The bureau said that in the first nine months of this year GNP was running 8.8 per cent ahead of the comparable 1961 period, with the volume of output up 7.8 per cent and prices 1.1 per cent higher.

Output per person in real volume terms had already passed the previous 1956 high of $1,959, measured on the yardstick of 1957 dollar values.

The third-quarter GNP rate of $40,256,000,000—adjusted to discount seasonal factors—compares with $39,568,000,000 in the second quarter.

Biggest impetus to the expansion during July-September came from an unusually large build-up of business inventories.

Satellite Useless

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Transit, navigation satellite, launched into near perfect orbit Tuesday, has turned out to be useless in helping submarines and ships pinpoint their locations at sea. A defence department spokesman said Thursday the satellite's radio communications system and associated equipment did not start working.

'Quick-Draw' Philip Still Conservationist

LONDON (AP)—Champions rallied to defend sharpshooting Prince Philip today against charges he's too quick on the draw.

The prince has come under increasing fire from animal-lovers recently because of his shooting of wild life during his world-ranging trips.

But the prince's champions, themselves noted animal-lovers, declared Philip is fond of wild life.

Philip went kangaroo-hunting while in Australia last month and was admonished by Australian animal-lovers.

This month in Italy there were murmurs of criticism after the prince, in a shooting party of Italian noblemen and industrialists, helped down 1,500 pheasants, partridges and wild ducks.

After that offensive Philip hunted the ferocious wild boar of Germany. And he frequently goes out after birds in Britain.

Philip's champions stepped forward today in a letter in The Daily Telegraph.

The letter was signed, among others, by Lord Alanbrooke, a distinguished bird-watcher, and Julian Huxley, a world-renowned naturalist.

Philip, Alanbrooke and Huxley are noted campaigners in the world wild life conservation movement.

The letter says all naturalists, biologists and country-lovers in Britain "deeply appreciate the great support given by the Duke of Edinburgh to the cause of conserving wild life and natural habitat and saving rare and interesting animals from extinction."

"They must therefore be concerned to read the continuous criticism of him regarding sport."

The Dismal Farce

IN HOWLING DOWN MR. DIEFENBAKER the back-bench of Liberals in Parliament behaved very badly this week and obviously embarrassed their leader, Mr. Pearson. But about this unpleasant incident two things need to be understood.

The first is that the government has treated Parliament with unprecedented contempt and has over-riden its most ancient and sacred right—the right to inspect public expenditures.

Having levied taxes, in the form of special tariffs and then refused to let Parliament debate them, the government asked for huge sums of money without allowing them to be discussed.

As its appropriations ran out, the government demanded that Parliament vote huge lump sums of hundreds of millions. Since the opposition could not allow the government to go broke, necessarily it had to vote these sums but it has never had the chance to debate all the estimates, item by item.

It took the British Parliament some hundreds of years and a civil war to establish the right of making this examination before any money was appropriated. In Canada the process of audit—the foundation of the parliamentary system—has been repealed since last spring.

No Parliament worth its salt would meekly accept an almost incredible abrogation of its liberties. It is not surprising, therefore, that the opposition is angry, though that does not excuse its bad manners toward the leader of the government. Mr. Diefenbaker, who regards himself as Parliament's champion, has brought this ugly situation upon himself.

An Excellent Appointment

THERE WILL BE WIDESPREAD satisfaction in the Greater Victoria area today at news of the appointment of Montague L. Tyrwhitt-Drake as Judge of the County Court, succeeding the highly-regarded Judge Joseph L. Clearhue.

Mr. Drake's antecedents were among the foremost builders of this country. His great-grandfather was a Judge who got his commission from Sir John A. Macdonald, the "Father of Canada." His grandfather was at one time Mayor of the City of Victoria. His father was for many years registrar of the Secondly, it is perfectly clear that a Parliament which has done no business of importance in three months of the autumn session, a Parliament which has no confidence in the government, cannot last much longer.

The spectacle of a Prime Minister unable to speak and stalking angrily from the House of Commons is symbolic. It symbolizes the break-down of this pitiable Parliament. The government has simply lost control of parliamentary business. Any Prime Minister with a sense of dignity and responsibility would not accept these conditions for a single day. He would take his case instantly to the people in an election and let them decide between him and the Opposition.

Perhaps this is what Mr. Diefenbaker will do. Perhaps he realizes that the government's contempt of Parliament, the anger of the opposition and the paralysis of public business are bringing the whole democratic process into disrepute. If so, he will dissolve Parliament without further prolonging a dismal farce.

Meanwhile a distinguished enemy of the Liberal Party has contributed his considered views to the current debate.

Mr. Douglas, stopped the proceedings this week to denounce the government with extraordinary bitterness for refusing to give Parliament necessary information and riding roughshod over its privileges. But the New Democratic leader forgot one point—this is the government which he has been keeping in office by voting confidence whenever his support was needed to avoid an election. His voice is stronger than his vote.

Supreme Court of British Columbia. In his own right, "Monty" Drake has won respect as solicitor for the Municipality of Saanich, as a director of the Salvation Army, as a committee member of Christ Church Cathedral, as a former president of the Art Gallery, and as a man keenly interested in the welfare of young people.

He brings to his post a highly-developed sense of fair play, a lively intellect and engaging sense of humor. The Times congratulates him on this latest honor, and predicts that he will prove to be an ornament of the bench.

Advance In Family Planning

THE ILLINOIS PUBLIC AID Commission has voted 6 to 4 to spend public funds on a birth-control program for women on relief who have children—and has drawn sharp attention to a problem of worldwide implications.

The economics of the Illinois majority's decision are obvious. Mothers who need public assistance with existing families have little chance of getting off the relief rolls if they have more offspring. But the economics of the issue are confronted by religious objections.

The four members of the commission who opposed the plan—one of them has already resigned—are Roman Catholics who feel that encouragement of birth control is highly improper.

Here, in miniature, is part of the problem facing a world which, should population explosions continue, will grow too small to support the human family inhabiting it. If, in relatively well-educated Illinois, family control is so violently opposed on religious grounds, how is it to be effective in backward countries which also have religious objections to such a course?

The Illinois plan would not impose birth control on anyone. It would merely provide financial assistance for family planning to any recipient of relief with a spouse or a child who requests such assistance, including payment for physician's services and prescriptions.

The local issue in Chicago has not yet been settled. Further court action is anticipated with opponents seeking to invalidate the commission's decision.

But while the controversy continues over the Illinois vote, it should be noted that quietly, without violent objection, Milwaukee is using tax money to assist people on low income in family planning.

The well-publicized issue in Illinois may mark a break-through to be followed elsewhere on this continent where the living standards of individual families of low, if any, earning capacity are further jeopardized by more children. On a much broader scale, family planning might provide the answer for the disaster forecast by Professor Malthus. It is an answer, nevertheless, which will be combatted widely throughout the world by forces convinced that it does violence to their faiths.

Slow, But Still Progress

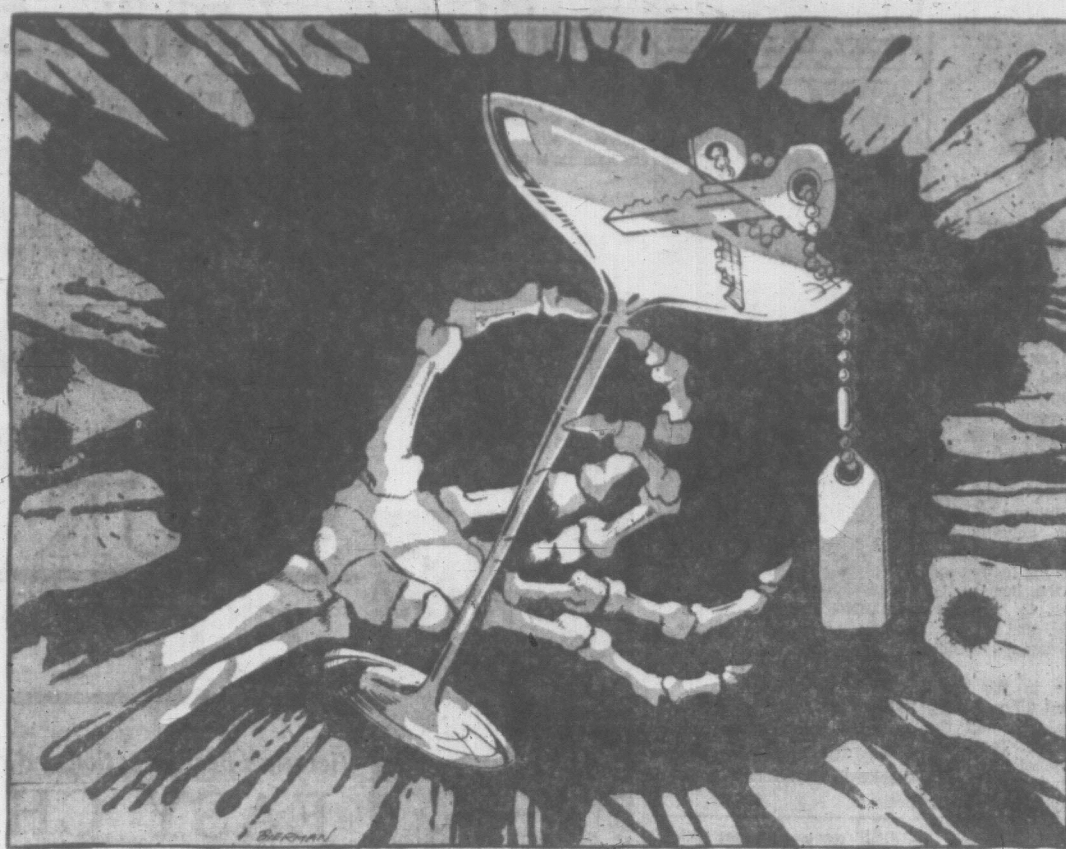

THERE WILL BE CRITICISM from some quarters as a result of the navigation season's accounts for the St. Lawrence Seaway. The traffic handled in the 1962 season totalled about 26 million tons, whereas the projected total called for 37 million.

The past year, nevertheless, has been the best since the Seaway was opened in 1959, and there is hope that many of the difficulties experienced so far have been overcome. There were high expectations for the Seaway when it was inaugurated. So far they have been fulfilled only in part. There has been opposition from competitive interests, there have been mechanical faults, and unexpected problems associated with the new traffic such as inability of some of the lake ports to handle the increased business. The physical problems are being overcome, and each year should show an increasing ability to cope with the critics.

At the time the Seaway was opened, a five-year prospective budget was set. There is little doubt that actual revenue will fall short of the target, and this may result, when the situation is reviewed, in demands that the charges be raised. Under the circumstances it would seem unwise to do this. It will be better to increase revenue slowly through gradually greater utilization of the Seaway than to try to recoup through higher charges on the existing traffic. In the latter case the probability is that the traffic would steadily decrease, and revenues fall still farther short of the required level.

By nature and from experience the Seaway is obviously a long-range asset. Its financing should be treated accordingly, if the full value of the facility is to be realized.

"One for the road, anyone . . ."

A PEEK IN AT THE POLE

By B. A. TOBIN

Dear Santa, Bring Me a Great Big Bomb

"SANTA, Santa, come to bed! It's way after midnight and you know you have to get your sleep! The all-night run's on Monday, don't forget, and you need every bit of rest you can get."

"Yes, yes, I know. But I simply have to get these lists completed. I don't leave them to the last minute, and they get harder and harder to fill every year."

"Well, don't over-do it, Santa. Where will all us elves be if you fall asleep on Christmas Eve? To say nothing of all the waiting world?"

"That's the problem. The waiting world. I declare, I've never known such odd and difficult requests in all my long career. I can't imagine how people think up such needs."

"Look at this one, from some chap named Mac something in England—Polaris missiles! Does he think my sleigh is a hundred-ton transport? And look at this one—a dozen rocket bases, any kind but Russian, he says—from some little Caribbean island whose only importance used to be to provide sugar for my sugar canes."

"Ah me, it wasn't always like this! I can remember some tough requests in times past, but they were never so violent as these. I remember a chap named Macdonald—wanted a trans-continental railway, I believe—one of the biggest orders I've ever filled. Took a while too, I can tell you, but he finally got it. But it was simple compared with some of these calls for guns and bombs and things. Even the youngsters want them now."

"Why, years ago I got requests for things like canals—put in one at Suez and later another at Panama—or there was that big legislative building—chap named Rattenbury, as I remember, and then of course a young fellow named King wanted twenty-odd years in public office and I was happy to give him them—such a trusting young chap. But all these guns and things—pff!"

"I had a lot of fun making that big iron tower in Paris that time. I really enjoyed that, and they were so grateful. And the year I supplied directions to that ancient tomb in Egypt—that was easy. And that little place down the west coast below us—Victoria, is it?—wanted those university buildings and a civic square last year—took a while but it was great fun arranging them."

"Then there was that scientist fellow, Salk. Wanted a polio preventive—I loved filling that one. And I remember another great fellow, Roosevelt—wanted an end to the depression. It was hard but I eventually managed to fix him up. He appreciated it, too."

"But nowadays, ah me, it just doesn't seem the same. Look at this list! Here's a letter from Paris—wants a set of hydrogen bombs. And Peking, the same. Where do they get such ideas? Here's a whole horde of requests from Berlin—all they want for Christmas is for me to knock some wall down. Most unusual. And here's a curly-head in Ottawa asking for another term in office but without an election if I can possibly avoid it. Odd indeed! Here's a chap in Victoria wants two power projects but one will do, and another fellow in the same place wants me to get rid of a thousand people for him somehow—mustn't hurt them or anything but just lose them somewhere. And bless me if that very same thousand isn't asking me for a guarantee that nobody will be able to solve their problems for them!"

"I just don't understand people any more. I'm afraid. Guess I'll have to change with the times—get me a robot next year to handle these requests while I concentrate on the old-fashioned kind."

"Just hand me that list there, please. This is more like it—bicycle, skates, doll carriage, skipping rope, painting set, little red wagon—bless 'em, I'll get busy on those before I go to bed. As long as they still want gifts like that, guess I'll keep the whole thing going for another year . . ."

Unclear Policy on Nuclear Weapons

THE government is making full use of the American plea for strengthening of the conventional forces of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. It is a questionable tactic for the result can only be to compound the confusion already fogging the issue of whether Canadian forces should be equipped with nuclear weapons.

The government's objective in so using the U.S. request, it is becoming evident, is to excuse itself in the public eyes from making the decision for or against nuclear weapons.

On his return this week from the NATO council meeting, External Affairs Minister Howard Green told the Commons:

"I think the most significant feature of that discussion was the suggestion by the United States that there is now ample deterrent capability on the western side . . . thus it follows that the crises (in future) are likely to be of a nature not quite serious enough to precipitate a nuclear war. In other words the communists may go just so far that they do not actually precipitate a nuclear war."

"There is a realization that NATO forces could be improved considerably to deal with that type of situation."

At the same time, he eagerly pointed out, the U.S. gave recognition of the fact that Canada, alone with the U.S., had met its force commitments to NATO. There was no criticism of the Canadian effort, despite press reports in Canada to the contrary.

All of this is fine, as far as it goes. The trouble is that it doesn't go far enough.

UNFINALIZED

Nowadays some people will not simply end or finish anything, they have to "finalize" it. The same folk would not like to begin anything, they would much rather initiate procedure. They might prefer to call a start an inception or a commencement, and they may also call an interval an intermission. Official English is full of this folly and it's always "operating" instead of working and "finalizing" or "terminating" instead of ending.

CLOSE TO LIFE

Too much taste is apt to stultify. Dickens was a vulgar writer, but is nevertheless the greatest of our novelists.

—Dr. A. L. Lewis, author and Fellow of All Souls College, Oxford.

It completely glosses over the true nuclear question that faces Canada. This nuclear question has nothing to do with making Canada an independent nuclear force, capable on its own of waging nuclear war and thus expanding the so-called "nuclear club" of such nations.

The true nature of Canada's nuclear problem can be clearly seen in a portion of the communiqué put out by the NATO council after its meeting—a communiqué compiled and approved by all members of NATO, including Canada. This paragraph says:

Balanced Forces

"They (NATO countries) agreed that it was necessary to increase the effectiveness of conventional forces. They further agreed that adequate and balanced forces, both nuclear and conventional, were necessary to provide the alliance with the widest possible range of response to whatever threat may be directed against its security. They recognized that a sustained effort will be required to provide and improve these forces."

The linking of conventional and nuclear capabilities was no accident. It goes to the core of the problem the Canadian government can't seem to resolve.

That problem, as we have noted, does not involve Canada in any expansion of the nuclear club, as the government seems to fear some people will think. But it does involve Canada in providing the most effective armaments for its new and highly sophisticated contribution to NATO—namely the CF-104 Starfighter "strike-reconnaissance" aircraft and the Honest John cannon, both of which are designed for tactical nuclear weapons use.

Still Conventional

In the modern military context, these weapons carriers are conventional armaments, even though they may use tactical nuclear warheads. They simply provide conventional forces with a bigger punch, replacing high explosives, as opposed to the massive nuclear assault capability provided by the strategic deterrent of long-range bombers and missiles carrying high-megaton nuclear bombs.

An equally important point is that even if Canada does agree to take U.S. provided tactical nuclear firepower for these weapons carriers, Canada still would not have independent control over it.

The nuclear warheads would be in U.S. custody (the U.S. doesn't want to expand the nuclear club, either), available for instantaneous transfer to the Canadian aircraft and Honest John in event of a war situation.

This fact would seem to provide a degree of logic to the Prime Minister's position that Canada won't take such weapons until the emergency actually arises.

But the logic vanishes when one knows that to provide for instantaneous transfer of these warheads the weapons carriers, particularly the aircraft, have to be specially fitted to handle them. And crews must be trained in how to use them.

Agreement Needed

This would take about six months. The outfitting of the equipment and the training of personnel can only be provided by the U.S., as is the case with the warheads. And to provide for all of this, as well as for joint control, Canada has to enter into an agreement with the U.S.

This the government declines so far to do, despite the fact nearly half a billion dollars is being poured into the Starfighter alone.

All Canada's Starfighter squadrons will be formed in Europe by April. Without the nuclear punch, the Starfighters will constitute money down the drain and a real weakening of NATO; unless, that is, another role is assigned them. So far there is no indication as to what conceivable alternative role they might play.

And yet, while the NATO council, with Canada's approval, goes on record as favoring a balanced conventional-nuclear force in Europe, the Canadian government continues to see no pressure, hear no pressure, and feel no pressure.

December Shopping Dirge

Through surge and clamour of the teeming shops
We stalk the elusive gift. The footed bowl
In elegant Lallique might suit Elaine,
And pacify her stupid husband, George.
Quite obviously he spurned the humidor
And she, the pewter mug we sent last year.

Now to the nylons. Pens with cotton feet
For Adelaide and not too light a beige;
Something discreet for stuffy Ernestine,
And knitted knee pads for her ghoul-ish aunt.

A contour girdle for the Kerby brat
Who fancies she's a stand-in for Bardot,
And for her mother, wilder than the wind,
Flame leotards to match her new decor.
The while ensuing budget hopes are high,
A modernistic Christmas tree to find,
With lacquered birds and bells of ambered glass,
To glamorize Adena's cocktail bore.

The Past is all about us. Still are we Caught—in the immediate chaos—of the day.
Vassals are we to custom and its chains
Enslave us now. Endurance duly spent
We totter to the toys and feebly greet
The lovely open season of the Cheque,
When Wraiths of ravaged wallets walk again.

No Intrusion

The Victoria Natural History Society protests any intrusion by logging or other private interest for commercial purposes in our park lands.

Strathcona Park should be left as a wilderness area.

These park areas were set aside for the use of future generations and no government has the right to deprive those who come after us of the pleasure of an unspoiled wilderness.

Thanks

I wish to express my sincere thanks and appreciation to the many voters who expressed their confidence in me on Thursday, Dec. 13.

I shall earnestly endeavour to assure them that their confidence will not be misplaced.

I also wish to thank the press, city editor and the reporter who covered the civic elections in presenting my view point to the electors.

Cecil Parrott,
1065 Finlayson Street.

Toys for 1100

We would like to take this means of thanking publicly all persons who made possible the distribution of toys to some 1,100 children through the Christmas Bureau. The appreciation of the whole community is due to the following:

The members of the Golden Knights' Car Club who worked throughout the year on these toys and made over 250 deliveries on Saturday, Dec. 15.

The Cosmopolitan Club of Victoria and all of those who worked with them in the collection and preparing of these toys.

The ladies of the Christmas Bureau volunteer committee who selected and packed these toys for delivery.

Safeway Limited for the use of a building as the toy distribution centre.

DR. ROY E. L. WATSON,
President,
Community Welfare Council.

Appreciation

I wish to take this opportunity to express my sincere appreciation to the electors of Esquimalt Municipality for the outstanding support I received at the polls on Dec. 6 and will do my utmost to uphold their confidence in me.

I also wish to thank my many friends who worked so diligently on all committees. To these people I also owe a debt of gratitude.

Pardon My Back

TWO of our perceptive young men who interest themselves in social mores, and who came to us earlier from the prairies, have informed me that Victoria is ingrown.

"Almost to the point of claustrophobia," one added. By reflex action I sprang to my horse, closed my vizor, grabbed my lance and went tilting forth in defence of the city. My performance was about up to par. I didn't convince them, but I confused them. One you can't convince. Worst in an argument on another occasion he capped his rebuttal with the statement: "My point is still valid in reverse!" Guys like that you can't beat.

Since the discussion I've wondered what the two young men meant by saying the city was ingrown, "almost to the point of claustrophobia." Ingrown like a toenail, perhaps? That doesn't make much sense.

Ingrown is the sense that it grows from within? Unless this means something like urban renewal I don't follow the definition. Ingrown like a litter of newborn puppies at feeding time? Well maybe. It's entirely possible that we who are old, or older, Victorians turn inward to the sources of our nourishment and too often present the end that carries the tail to relative newcomers. I think we may be prone to that discourtesy, if it is a discourtesy.

It's so very easy, at a cocktail party for instance, to see old friends you haven't run across recently and to have yourself off with them in order to bring yourself up to date on their recent doings and the doings of their families, or to rehash old times.

To a relative stranger, that could produce the illusion of a football huddle to which only members of the team were admitted. It isn't very polite. In fact it's downright unthoughtful.

But it seems to me, thinking back over our discussion, that it wasn't any physical arrangement of bodies that gave my young friends the impression that we were ingrown. It seemed to be more a restriction in fields of interest.

"I had understood," said the young man with the touch of claustrophobia, "that Victoria was a city of individualists. It has a reputation for people of independent mind who read books and have more than one idea to rub against another."

And he said it in a way which left me feeling that he had found Victorians unresponsive to new thoughts or those shared liberally in other parts of the world.

There are reasons to believe that such a condition may prevail here. We're on an island and islanders can be insular, though I'd thought that modern communications had more or less eliminated that tendency.

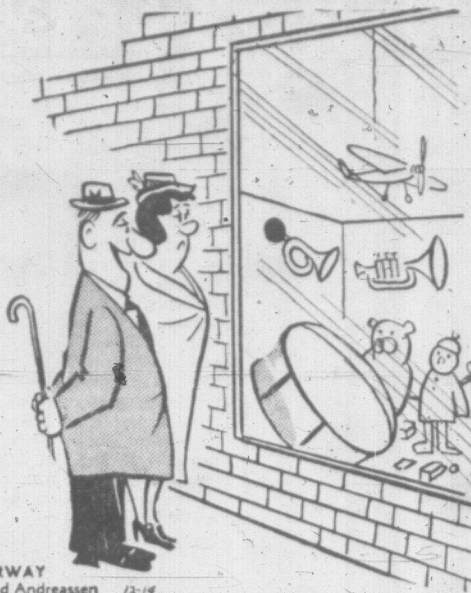

We do, of course, have our special interests. If you happen to raise begonias, you may be so disinterested in rose culture that you seem ingrown to a rose man.

Or, if many people here are like me, we could suffer from a graver fault: I find it increasingly difficult to put myself out to make the acquaintance of strangers, or to cultivate interests which are engrossing to them. I have as much as I can do keeping up with things my friends are concerned with. And sheer laziness stops me from making those engaging contacts, which I have always intended to make, with people from other parts of the world who have come to set down roots here.

I admit, to my shame, that I can count on the fingers of one hand the number of close acquaintances who are of other than Anglo-Saxon origin. With common interests and a common tongue, we don't have to make much effort to converse. Maybe because we have become so attached to this comfortable way of discourse we've settled our minds too early into an easy chair from which we don't want to rouse them. That way lies intellectual obesity and eventual deterioration of mental fibres.

Just possibly my young friends may make it so uncomfortable that I'll pry myself from my sleepy-hollow. Which I should do anyhow, if only to ask them what they mean when they say Victoria's ingrown.

4-Week Recess For Parliament

By DON HANRIGHT

OTTAWA (CP) — After a crowded day filled with political rancor, both houses of Parliament began a four-week recess Thursday night.

Provided Prime Minister Diefenbaker doesn't call an election in the interval, the MPs will return to duty Monday, Jan. 21.

After sittings that ran to 60 days in the Commons and 39 in the Senate, not a single item in more than $6,000,000,000 worth of spending estimates was passed, despite the fact that the fiscal year is two-thirds over.

The situation left the government with special month-to-month votes of money so it could carry on. The latest—$30,089,511.93 for January—was voted Thursday night, after opposition warnings that February's allowance may hinge on government action on other affairs.

The Crown corporation that will organize and run the 1967 World's Fair in Montreal was set up, after Associate Defence Minister Sevigny's prediction that it will draw up to 40,000,000 visitors and that fair construction will amount to about $200,000,000.

And Veterans Minister Churchill—government House leader—made a bid for the unanimous consent needed to whisk nearly 450 divorce bills through the Commons while NDP divorce blockaders Frank Howard and Arnold Peters were absent.

Remaining New Democrats blocked the move. The bills remain unpassed.

Two ministers made policy statements earlier.

1. Under acknowledged pressure from western interests, Transport Minister Balcer said the great majority of railway applications to abandon branch lines will be subject to an overall review by the Board of Transport Commissioners and

Court Refuses Murder Appeals

EDMONTON (CP) — The Alberta Court of Appeal rejected Thursday an appeal by two men convicted of capital murder and sentenced to be hanged for the slaying of an Edmonton golf professional, whose body has not been found.

The judgment was handed down by Chief Justice Bruce Smith.

Raymond Daniel Workman, 44, and William Huculak, 29, both of Edmonton, were convicted in September of the murder of Frank Willey, 48. Mr. Justice J. V. H. Milvain sentenced them to be hanged Jan. 9.

LONDON LETTER

The Half-Pint Goose

LONDON — At random Christmas dinner tables this year will be the "minigoose." It has just made its debut at the Poultry Show, as the answer to those who like goose but just can't cope with the size of the bird in their ovens.

A full-size goose weighs 15 or 16 pounds—the minigoose a mere six pounds. It was developed over the past six years by Colonel F. Johnson, a Suffolk poultry farmer.

The goose in Britain had gone pretty much out of favor, because of that bulk and fattiness. But the minigoose, it seems, has little bone and little fat and the maximum quantity of good meat. Early in the New Year there will be pre-packed frozen minigoose in the supermarkets, which will be something new and different for the housewives.

New offering by composer Julian Slade, whose "Sally Days" held the long-running record for a British musical, is a musical version of that old classic, "Vanity Fair."

Ripped to ribbons by the critics as setting the British musical back anything up to 30 years, it is doing brisk business at the box office. In these times of Rock 'n' Roll and Twist it seems a lot of people have a yen for the old, more leisurely days.

The bingo craze has reached such proportions here that it shows signs of invading that other national pastime—soccer.

The Shrewsbury Club, pro team of the Third Division, made application to the Football Association to be allowed to run bingo sessions at their ground over the loud-speakers before each game. Just the way to keep the crowd entertained before the match starts was their view.

But the Football Association has turned thumbs down. Their reason: "It might be likely to bring the game into disrepute."

Taped Priest's Talk Dropped by Crown

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Crown Thursday decided not to introduce a tape recording of a woman's conversation with a Roman Catholic priest as evidence in an extortion trial.

City prosecutor Stewart McMoran said the Crown is withdrawing the tape as a matter of public interest.

A deluge of protests from clergy of all denominations followed the Crown's attempt to introduce the tape in court Wednesday.

The case concerns Donald Lloyd, 26, and his wife Eleanor, 23, who are charged with attempting to extort $15,000 from a 77-year-old widow by threatening to kill her foster daughter.

'Some Value' In Probe Of Injunctions

The government hasn't decided yet, but there "may be some value" in appointing a special commissioner to investigate the use of injunctions against B.C. labor, Labor Minister Leslie Peterson said Thursday.

The B.C. Federation of Labor suggested the move with either Dr. John Deuschel of Queen's University or Carl H. Goldenberg of Montreal as commissioner.

Mr. Peterson said it was unlikely a decision would be made until after the holiday season.

Prosecutor Donald Morrison had sought to introduce a tape recording which he said was made secretly while Mrs. Lloyd was talking to Rev. Aloisius Craven, a priest at St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church in the office of Det. Insp. Ian McGregor of the police criminal investigation branch.

Defence counsel John Macey protested vigorously, saying the introduction hit at "the very foundations of religion." Magistrate Gordon Scott adjourned the trial until Dec. 27 to give the defence a chance to prepare argument against admission of the tape.

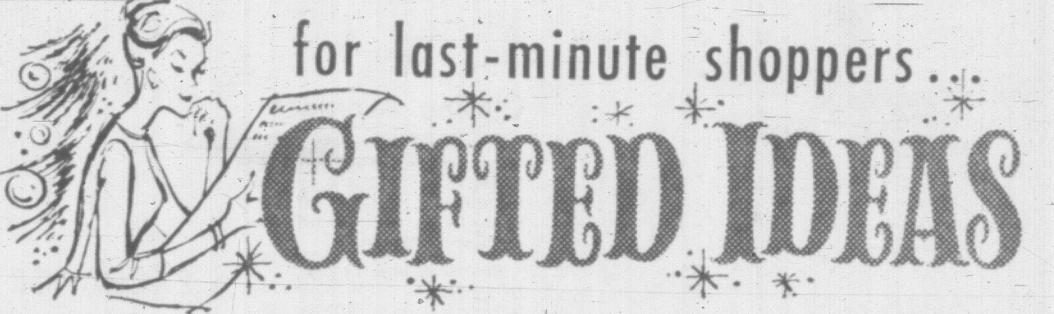

The recording of a confidential conversation between a member of the clergy and someone seeking his aid was protested in several interviews.

Rev. H. I. Bader, former editor of the British Columbia Catholic, said: "It's like trying to bug heaven or God himself. It's tampering with the conscience of the individual; there is a right of confidence between a person and God. It's little short of being sacrilegious."

Mt. Washington Finds Developer

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

Agreement with a major mining company to develop Mt. Washington Copper Co. Ltd.'s property near Courtenay was announced at the annual meeting in Vancouver Thursday by president J. L. Gibson.

Mr. Gibson said he was unable to name the company at present, but it is believed in investment circles to be Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. of Canada Ltd. which holds all the property adjoining Mt. Washington on an option from Canadian Pacific Oil and Gas Ltd. The area is within the E and N land grant.

The agreement provides for up to $1,317,500 to be spent on development with funds to be made available at 6 per cent if a decision to go into production is reached. The loan would be repaid from production.

There will be an immediate payment of $25,000 to Mt. Washington and a minimum expenditure of $105,000 for the first nine months of 1963. The major company will take down 60,000 shares of Mt. Washington treasury stock at $1.75 net.

There are also options on 80,000 shares at $2 and a further $80,000 at $2.25 and the underwriter, Thomas S. Mackay and Company has agreed to forego all options including 252,000 shares of Qualicum Mines Ltd., a Mt. Washington subsidiary.

The meeting approved a 10 per cent increase in share capitalization from two million to five million shares.

E. P. Taylor's Argus Corp. Ltd. continued its growth during the year ended Nov. 30 and wound up with listed assets of $77,160,662 compared with $69,950,682 the previous year.

Actual value of the assets at present market values is closer to $140,000 since the balance sheet lists all holdings at cost.

Mr. Taylor's annual report shows investment income for the year of $4,801,644, up $488,000 from last year, while net income was $3,768,952 compared with $3,253,108 in 1961. Earned surplus was $7,556,355. For 1962 common and Class C shares net earnings were 33.4 cents. Indicated net asset value of shares was $11.77.

Mr. Taylor revealed that Argus had increased its stake in Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines Ltd. with purchase of 140,000 shares, bringing it up to 640,000 shares or 13 per cent of outstanding shares.

Major holdings in other companies remained unchanged and included B.C. Forest Products 11.6 per cent; Canadian Breweries, 11 per cent; Dominion Stores, 23.6 per cent; Dominion Tar and Chemical, 17 per cent; Massey-Ferguson, 12.2 per cent, and Standard Radio, 49.9 per cent.

Davidson and Company failed to exercise its option on 125,000 shares of Western Mines Ltd. at $3 a share Wednesday and the further option of 125,000 shares at $3.50 due March 26 has now been cancelled.

John C. Reed of W. C. Pitfield and Co. Ltd. has won membership in the firm's "president's club" it was announced this week.

The award goes to securities salesmen who achieve outstanding success in volume and quality of business during their first five years with the firm.

Appointment

Mr. W. Palmer Hayhurst, President, F. H. Hayhurst Co. Limited is pleased to announce the appointment of Kenneth M. Wright of Vancouver as Vice-President and Manager of the Company's Western Division. The appointment follows the recently announced merger of F. H. Hayhurst Co. Limited with Brown, Mitchell & Wright Limited. The latter company's offices in Vancouver, Calgary and Winnipeg will now operate as offices of F. H. Hayhurst Co. Limited.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Stocks Ahead, Trading Light

The stock market remained ahead after light trading today, but showed slightly easing tendencies.

Industrials, after climbing more than a point, dropped back to show a gain of 1/2 point.

AT TORONTO banks provided a firmer undertone with Royal up 1/2 and Nova Scotia and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce both ahead 1/2.

Power Corporation, Imperial Oil and Bell Telephone all gained 1/4, while Page-Hersey and Shell of Canada each advanced 1/2.

Among the losers were Aluminum and Interprovincial Pipe Line, both off 1/4, Dominion Foundries and Steel, down 1/2 and Atlas Steel and B.C. Power, both down 1/4.

AT NEW YORK General Motors slipped a fraction as it rested from its move to a record high. Chrysler trimmed a point loss and also was fractionally lower, along with American Motors and Ford.

AT LONDON stock prices ended a generally unsettled week on a quiet market today. There was no sign of buyers returning on any scale and the better tone was due more to a halt in recent small selling.

Canadian bank shares were generally firm. U.S. dollar stocks reflected the Wall St. improvement but Canadian issues were mixed.

Mines were quiet but gold shares had a harder appearance. Oils were mostly better.

AT VANCOUVER today the trading was moderate. Fort St. John dropped to $2.10 and Grandview was up at $3.35. Mt. Washington fell to $1.10 and the Peso rose to $2.38. Western Mines was up at $2.30 while Shell A sold for $13 and Woodward A rose to $17.

CHICAGO (AP)—Feed grain futures drifted into weakness, but other grain futures developed some firmness today in slow pre-holiday evening up transactions on the Board of Trade.

Second Look Requested On Private Hospital Aid

City council Thursday asked $1,000,000 complex including housing and recreational facilities for the aged as well as the hospital.

Ald. Millard Mooney—charging that council members had been “well lobbied on this project”—said he was firmly opposed to rezoning because it would harm value of dwellings in the vicinity.

He asked Ald. A. W. Toome, who made the motion for a second look, if he would appraise of private hospitals in other residential parts of the city.

The temporary appointment will give council time to decide on a permanent replacement for Angus Smith who leaves the post at the end of the year to take a position with the law society in Vancouver.

Saanich prosecutor Kenneth Murphy was retained by city council to act as interim prosecutor for the city at $1,200 a month for January and February.

The final piece of business saw the East and West agree that the new revolutionary regime in Yemen, a small Arab republic, had the right to take its seat at the UN over the claims of a royalist regime.

The assembly abolished its one-man watchdog commission on Communist Hungary on the surprise initiative of the United States earlier Thursday.

Canada supported the move and the U.S. stressed that it meant no implication of “liquidating” the question of Hungary that arose when Soviet tanks crushed a rebellion in 1956 at the same time the Suez Crisis occurred. But the commissioner, Sir Leslie Munro of New Zealand, denounced the move, telling a reporter it was “bad business.”

The assembly also:

1. Authorized Secretary-General U Thant to spend up to $10,000,000 a month in the Congo and $1,500,000 in the Middle East to keep UN forces in the field until June 30.
2. Extended for two more years the life of the UN works and relief agency for Palestine refugees.
3. Noted a report from the 17-nation disarmament committee that its general negotiations had failed to produce an agreement on a nuclear test ban to take effect by Jan. 1.

Average weekly per capita bread consumption in Britain in 1960 was 2 1/2 pounds, or 1/4 pound less than in 1954.

UN Assembly Ends Session, New Yemen Regime Seated

By JOSEPH MACSWEEN

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Muhammad Zafrulla, Khan of Pakistan coached the 17th United Nations General Assembly to a graceful close just after midnight today, a day earlier than the deadline.

The final piece of business saw the East and West agree that the new revolutionary regime in Yemen, a small Arab republic, had the right to take its seat at the UN over the claims of a royalist regime.

The assembly abolished its one-man watchdog commission on Communist Hungary on the surprise initiative of the United States earlier Thursday.

SOVIET FIRES ANOTHER TEST

WASHINGTON (CP) — The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission said Thursday the Soviet Union exploded another atmospheric nuclear test shot in the Arctic. The explosion was described as a low-yield shot in the vicinity of Novaya Zemlya.

City council instructed city solicitor T. P. O'Grady to seek a court hearing rather than arbitration of a claim by Lydia Arsens for compensation to cover costs of finding other accommodation when the city expropriated a number of stores for the View Street parking garage.

Aldermen seized an application for permission to erect an additional neon sign at the Empress Hotel's motor lodge as an opportunity to get rid of the present one.

Ald. J. L. McLean, contending the existing billboard size sign was an eyesore, sparked the idea.

Instead of denying this application, council asked the company to produce a more tasteful design for a new sign altogether, he said. This could consolidate what they have already and what they would like to add.

U.S. Hopes to Block Russians in Congo

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — A high-level U.S. military mission headed for The Congo today after talks with key United Nations officials on supplying new military equipment for the UN Congo force. There have been official expressed fears that the Russians are awaiting a chance to step into The Congo in a military way.

Lt. Gen. Louis Truman, head of the mission, said anti-U.S. rioting in Elisabethville, capital of secessionist Katanga province, would not change his plans in the slightest.

Esquimalt To Douse Beach Revelry

Esquimalt council Thursday night discussed beach parties and a swimming party but paid more attention to matters dealing with money.

The beach parties take place on Fleming Beach, usually in early morning hours, to the annoyance of nearby residents. The parks committee is going to investigate and will likely erect a sign forbidding use of the beach at night.

The swimming party will be held Boxing Day by Esquimalt Penguin Club. Council gave permission for the use of Gorge Park for the swimmers.

EARLIER PAYMENT
Council is going to try and enlist the help of the municipality's representative in Parliament to have the federal government pay grants to the municipality on time.

At present the payments by the government in lieu of taxes are only made after the budget is drawn up. This makes it difficult to estimate accurately.

Two Suffer Cuts, One Man Charged In Knife Fight

Two men were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital Wednesday night after a fight involving a knife on Fisgard Street.

Archie Willock, 3134 Cedar Hill Cross Road, was treated for lacerations to the left hand, and Gordon Stewart, 2780 Dean, for cuts to the right hand. Both men were released after treatment.

Robert L. Dunbar, of Glen Lake, appeared in city police court later on a charge of assaulting Willock with a knife, causing him bodily harm.

He was remanded to Dec. 27 for plea. Bail was set at $250. Police said four men were involved in the fight.

Metchosin Carollers Modernize Old Custom

Fewer and fewer are the carollers who keep alive the old tradition of passing from house to house, filling the winter night with the lilt of Christmas song. But out at Metchosin there is a 20-voice choral group that has reinstated the practice and will again this year, go forth a-carolling on Sunday night. Being a rural area, the choristers have found it necessary to modernize the old custom. They travel from place to place—this year there will be seven stops—in two compact-size station wagons, in the back of one of which a small organ is installed.

Test Case Expected On Bingo

ALBERNI — A test case to determine the legality of bingo games is expected to result from closure of a bingo game here Wednesday.

The Alberni Athletic Association's game was raided and dispersal of about 160 players ordered.

Cpl. R. L. Purdy of Alberni detachment said Thursday that charges will probably be laid under the Gaming Act.

Bingo games have been a means of fund-raising for the AAA's hall maintenance, debt retirement and juvenile athletic program for many years.

The closure was carried out by police with politeness and courtesy.

One officer entered the hall and told the players that they were sorry to interrupt their game.

He said closure of the game was part of an investigation and asked players to leave by the door where another officer stood to take some of the names and addresses.

Some people were permitted to leave by another door to accelerate the clearing of the hall.

Kamloops Man Purchases Plaza Hotel

Officials of George C. Hay Ltd. said Thursday the Plaza Hotel in Nanaimo has been purchased by Bob Affleck of Kamloops.

The price was not disclosed.

COURTENAY — A Chamber of Commerce drive for publicity funds, aimed at a minimum $3,000 target, has passed the $2,000 mark.

It is the first time the chamber has attempted a campaign based on one annual assessment for each business. Requests were sent to 350 firms and individuals in the district.

The minimum $3,000 objective would provide only limited business and tourist promotion for the district, the Chamber of Commerce executive points out. It hopes the final result will be closer to $6,000.

COURTENAY — The federal government will be asked to forget its austerity program in order to restore civilian jobs at RCAF Station Comox.

A meeting of the district Winter Employment Committee agreed on the request after learning about 50 jobless persons formerly were employed at the Comox base.

CAMPBELL RIVER — Meanest thieves in town were active this week when they stole Boy Scout Christmas trees from a supermarket parking lot.

Witnesses saw three vehicles drive up and load the trees in their cars and drive away.

Scouts rely on the honesty of the public to pay for their trees at the store.

CAMPBELL RIVER — Work started this week on the $750,000 Campbell River Inn.

Building permit for the new hotel was taken out last Friday and work started the following day.

A pile driver has moved into the hotel site, adjacent to the new shopping centre, and will sink over 100 foundation piles. Hotel is expected to be completed by Easter.

Funeral Saturday For Ex-Californian

William W. Dunlop, 2333 Beach Drive, who was a prominent businessman in San Francisco until his retirement in 1947, died at Royal Jubilee Hospital, Thursday.

Funeral service will be held at 2:30 p.m. Saturday in McCall Bros. Funeral Chapel with Canon H. J. Jones officiating. Cremation will follow.

Mr. Dunlop came to Canada in 1908 from Scotland. He went shortly after to live in San Francisco but returned to Canada on the outbreak of the First World War.

He joined the Canadian Army and served overseas with the 102nd North British Columbians until 1918. After demobilization he went back to San Francisco.

When he retired in 1947 he was manager of the San Francisco branch of the American Tobacco Co. He lived in California until 1960 when he came to Victoria.

Mr. Dunlop was a lifetime member of the Masonic Order and a Shriner. He is survived by the widow, Mary Isabella; a sister, Agnes, and a brother, James, both of Liverpool, England.

Triplets Born

SASKATOON (CP) — Mrs. Carl Loeppky gave birth to triplets, two boys and a girl, Thursday, the first such birth here in a decade.

SECOND LIFE MEMBERSHIP

City Kinsman Hits 'Double'

It was a double honor for J. A. (Bill) Ingram Thursday night when he became the sixth member of Victoria Kinsmen Club to be presented with a life membership since the club's inception in 1926.

He was presented with a similar award as a member of Kamloops Kinsmen Club in 1948.

No member of the Victoria club has ever heard of a Kinsman holding two life memberships before.

"Kin has been my life," said Mr. Ingram, a B.C. civil servant. "My motto is a guy gets out of Kin what he puts into Kin."

ALL OFFICES

Mr. Ingram has certainly put a lot into furthering the work of his club in the community. He has attended 26 consecutive district and several national conventions and served two terms as district governor and district deputy.

He has held all the offices in the Victoria club and is now an active K-40 member.

He is probably best known to Victoria bingo fans as he has called the past 29 Kinsmen bingos as well as lending his talents to other charities in a similar capacity.

Kinsmen bingos have raised about $65,000 for local charities such as polio and cerebral palsy. Bingo proceeds have also financed the development of Gorge Park.

Mr. Ingram described bingo as a "painless, honest form of entertainment for charity."

B.C. Man Missing

KAMLOOPS (CP) — RCMP here said Thursday they are concerned about the disappearance of an elderly Chinese cook Dec. 15. No trace has been found of Lung Sing Chan, 60, who was employed at a ranch in the Chilcotin area, 75 miles northwest of Williams Lake.

Collision Wrecks Train

OKEECHOBEE, Fla. (AP) — A collision between a passenger train and a truck wrecked the train and demolished the truck, killing three persons and crowding this little community's hospital with injured.

A Montreal man and his wife were among the injured.

The Seaboard Air Line Railroad's Miami-to-New York Silver Star, travelling 70 to 80 miles an hour, and a tractor-trailer loaded with oranges met just before 7 p.m. Thursday a mile northwest of Okeechobee. Both locomotives and seven of the train's 11 cars jumped the rails. The lead locomotive, in which two trainmen died, blazed for two hours.

The dead were identified as H. O. Slaughter, 50, the train's baggagemaster, of Wildwood, Fla., William Bell, 56, of Tampa, Fla., its fireman, and O. B. Jones, 38, of Haines City, Fla., driver of the truck.

Phillip Elliott, 70, of Montreal said when the crash occurred his wife, Eliza, 62, "went right over me and on down the aisle, ending up under a pile of luggage that was coming down off the racks."

TITTLE BACK AT HELM; WEBSTER HIT BY VIRUS

NEW YORK (AP)—Y. A. Tittle was back at the controls of New York Giants Thursday as they continued their preparations for the Dec. 30 National Football League title game with Green Bay Packers.

The 36-year-old quarterback, who threw a record 33 touchdown passes this season, worked out alone Wednesday because of a bruised back resulting from an out-of-bounds tackle in Sunday's game with Dallas. He worked with regulars Thursday.

The Giants were without fullback Alex Webster, confined to his home with the virus. Giants officials said it was nothing serious but they did not want to take chances.

SPORTS DIARY

By JIMMY CANNON

NEW YORK — Many guys come into this town and achieve fame. But some remain strangers forever. But Alex Webster is part of the city and belongs here in all its seasons. They want him to know they appreciate what he has done as the fullback of the Giants. It is more than coming to the table of a famous man to get his signature on a menu.

They bring him the gift of their homage. It is not done with the impolite hysteria of pointless adulation. The drunks are courteous and they don't attempt to intrude on Webster's privacy. They shake his hand and tell him they are pulling for the Giants against the Green Bay Packers in the National Football League final on Dec. 30.

At lunch in Toot Shor's a matron, fat and clanking with jewelry in her bulky mink coat, regretfully explained she wouldn't be here when the championship game would be played. But she qualified her apology by promising to watch Webster on television from Miami.

The kids don't become awkward and stiff when they solicit his autograph. They speak to Webster as if he were a cherished uncle from out of town whom they didn't see often. It is a guy being advised by his neighbors that they are gratified by his success. The great metropolis is turned into an excited neighborhood by guys such as Webster. It doesn't occur often.

Fans Can Sense Webster's Humility

This has been one of Webster's best years. But he is precise about the circumstances of his feats because he does not intend to slight anyone connected with it. He makes sure you know he didn't do it alone. This unselfish attitude influences people who only knew him as a football player from the distances of the spectator. They sense the genuine humility of the man. The same instinct causes the baseball buffs to feel Roger Maris' crabbed hostility.

It all changed in the last couple of years because in 1960 it appeared that Webster was through with football. He smashed a knee in an exhibition game against Dallas in Louisville and reported to the Giant training site without a job the next summer. After ten years, Webster seems to be running harder and with quicker impulses. He describes this as a gift from Allie Sherman, the Giant coach.

"I was through, let's face it," Webster said. "I built up the leg by a lot of bowling and a lot of walking up stairs. I was put on the disabled list in 1960, and only carried the ball 10 times all season. Allie had a lot to do with it. He used me like I should be . . . strictly a fullback."

He blew a smoke ring, waddling and fat. He moved across the table, like a doughnut dissolving in acid. Down Broadway, eight blocks away, coming out of a billboard on which an immense head of Webster is painted, the smoke rings travel across Times Square to advertise a popular brand of cigarettes.

"I'm always in the backfield now," said Webster. "I used to flank right a lot. The running out and back wore me out. I weigh 235 pounds. I'm not built for that. I don't get tired from running the way I used to. Now Allie uses Frank Gifford and Del Shofner out there."

One of the people dining with him flatteringly mentioned Webster as a dependable pass catcher. "I'm the slowest thing on two feet," said Webster, declining the compliment. "They must cover Del. They got to double team him. I don't see how they can cover Del, man to man. They sacrifice the short passes to me to protect against the bomb to Del. That's why I've caught about 47-48 passes this year."

The Giants aren't the same team, Webster insists, that lost the championship to the Packers, 37-0, last year. They are better because Phil King has become a ferociously positive blocker. The offensive line was strengthened by shifting Gregg Larsen from tackle to guard and putting Jack Stroud at the tackle position. The spectacular improvement of Darrell Doss has also refined the offensive squad. The passing has progressed steadily because quarterback Y. A. Tittle, in his second season, has learned the habits of his receivers.

No Job, No Money, No Place to Go

"That King," said Webster. "He's such a good blocker. On the first play against Dallas Sunday, Phil slipped and missed a block and I got belted. It wasn't his fault. But he apologized for it like he had done something to me."

Looking back, Webster recollected being turned loose by the Washington Redskins just before the tournament opened in his first season in the league.

"My wife was pregnant," he said. "I had no job, no money, no place to go. We were living with my mother. I wanted to send a wire to Montreal Alouettes in the Canadian League. I had two dollars and didn't know if I could afford it. I called a newspaperman and he wrote a night letter for me, keeping it short as he could. The next day I got an offer from Montreal. After two years up there, the Giants sent for me."

He blew another smoke ring and watched it disintegrate. "Being cut by Washington," Alex Webster said, "was the best thing that ever happened to me."

Chargers Won't Run After 'Free' Players

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—General manager coach Sid Gillman of San Diego Chargers of the American Football League says he isn't interested in signing players who play out their option in the rival National League.

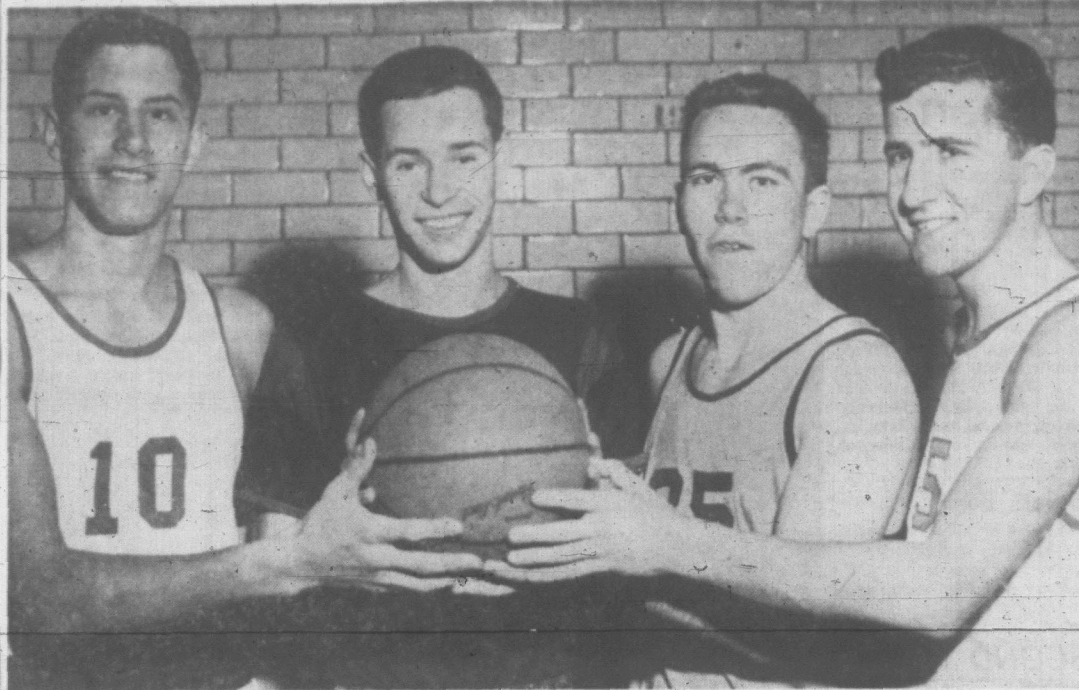

For that reason, Gillman said Thursday, he will not sign 230-pound John Adams, a fullback and end who played out his option with the NFL Chicago Bears.

Adams' hometown is San Diego. He told Charger officials he was not unhappy with the Bears but wanted to play where he has business connections.

Gillman said he neither condones nor encourages athletes playing out their options but he

DEFAULT TO CHIEFS

Puritans Duck Saturday Date

Vancouver Puritans are apparently trying to make sure they lose three games in four days.

Rugger Officials Up In Arms

Puritans suffered their second Inter-City Basketball League defeat in two nights at Vancouver Thursday when they dropped a 72-60 decision to the pace-setting North Vancouver Nocturnes. On Wednesday they were thumped 74-55 by the Bakers at New Westminster.

Those losses left them in a third-place deadlock with Victoria Haida Chiefs and the two clubs were scheduled to settle the third spot Saturday night at Central Junior High School.

Chiefs are ready and eager for the fray. The same can't be said about Puritans. They informed league president Norm Gloag after Thursday's defeat that they will be unable to make the trip to Victoria.

Gloag has not indicated how he will deal with the defaulters, but it appears certain he must award Haida a victory and consider disciplinary action against Puritans.

It was an unfortunate break for Chiefs, who have stirred new basketball interest in Victoria this season and are now deprived of their regular Saturday night appearance.

"We don't want to win any games by default," said Haida manager Neil Sprinkling this morning. "We want to play."

"We were looking forward to this game and had our best workout of the season last night. This is no way to build up a league."

At Vancouver, Thursday, Nocturnes got 16 points from Vincent Knight and 14 from big Emery Barnes as they stretched their lead over Bakers to four points.

Scoring: North Vancouver—Price 9, Carter 5, Broadwater 10, Winn 1, Knight 15, Jones 6, Nott 6, Stulac 4, Barnes 14, Total—72.

Puritans—Majewski 2, Heathcote 13, Clark 16, Brown 7, Lemon 5, Galloway 3, Candlish 1, Goodwin 3, Tervis 2. Total—60.

The College's rugby, ice hockey, grass hockey and basketball teams have all begun to work out classroom kinks before embarking on second term schedules.

The men's basketball Vikings have an immediate and urgent need. They travel to Calgary on Boxing Day for a two-day tournament (Dec. 27-28) at the University of Alberta.

The Vikings then return home to host Gray Harbor Jr. College on Jan. 2 at Gordon Head.

VC's hockey club begins practices during the vacation period in preparation for their first league game of the new year on Jan. 4.

The women's grass hockey team will play its first game of 1962 on Jan. 5. The rugby Vikings will play their first game of the new year the week of Jan. 1.

Max's son, Lynn, 20, and his nephew, Bev, 30, make up the younger half of the Bentley foursome.

Lynn, in his first year of senior hockey, plays centre for the Stars, while Bev, who played with the San Francisco Seals of the WHL last season, handles the goaltending chores for the Stars.

The name Bentley is synonymous with hockey. In the early 1940s the great attacking line of the Chicago Black Hawks was made up

Czech Crowds 'Very Excited'

PRAGUE (CP)—Canada's touring Saskatoon Quakers are not winning any hockey games in Europe—but they're getting their share of the headlines.

The Quakers, dumped 4-1 by the Czechoslovakian national team, Wednesday, are being painted as ogres on ice by Czech sportswriters.

It was their fourth loss in four games and they have nine left in their 13-game tour.

Other Canadian teams have also been chastised for their rambunctious style of play on previous goodwill tours.

But this time a Canadian newspaper man travelling with the team, Cam McKenzie, sports editor of the Saskatoon Star-Phoenix, agrees that the Quakers have been flexing their muscles.

However, McKenzie, in a telephone report to Canada Thursday, said:

"In Wednesday's battle he slammed a stick over the boards in protest during the second period, in which Saskatoon picked up 12 of 16 penalties, then walked across the ice to argue at the penalty box."

Said the newspaper Mlada Fronta: "Lynn tried to add to the rich cabaret program by striking a stick against the boards and by ridiculing the referees."

Said McKenzie: "He put on a bit of an act."

The main offenders among the players, the Czech writers said, were Don Fletcher and Harry Smith, replacements from Trail Smoke Eaters who joined the Quakers after the first two losses.

Mlada Fronta said Fletcher was ridiculing referees when "he begged the referee on his knees to put the goal in its place."

"CZECHS DISGUSTED"
The Prague newspaper Prace said: "It was evident that they (the Czechs) do not want to risk injuries before two matches with the Soviet Union and that they are disgusted by the 'boxing' hockey practised by the Canadians."

McKenzie, who admits he is a Quaker fan, said several of the referee's calls against Saskatoon were undeserved.

"People get very excited over here," he said in his report. "They whistle like the blazes. And when 15,000 fans are whistling like mad, as they did Wednesday night, it goes right through your head."

He said this might account for the way the Quakers played. But he added that the game would be considered unusually violent even in Canada.

McKenzie said Bill Patrick, team president, gave the players "a bit of a talk in the dressing room afterwards, telling them to ease up on rough play."

Boston Pair 'Takes Care' Of Detroit

Boston Bruins use Jerry Toppazzini and Charlie Burns as penalty-killers, but that doesn't mean they lack offensive ability.

Detroit Red Wings found this out Thursday night when they were upset 5-3 by the last-place Bruins on two timely goals by the defensive specialists. Both came with the teams at full strength.

Toppazzini broke a 3-3 deadlock with little more than five minutes remaining when he poked home Burns' rebound. Then Burns slid the puck into an open net with seven seconds left after Wings yanked goalie Terry Sawchuk for a sixth at-tacker.

In Thursday night's other NHL game, Montreal Canadiens pulled into a 4-4 tie with Toronto Maple Leafs on a semi-breakaway goal by veteran right-winger Bernie Geoffrion.

In the last minute of the game, Bobby Rousseau of Montreal was gashed in the face by Carl Brewer's stick. He needed four stitches across the nose and above the right eye, while Brewer was given a major penalty.

The game also saw the season's first assist by a goalie when Montreal netminder Jacques Plante fired the puck into the mid-ice zone early in the third period. Henri Richard, picked up the puck and carried into the Leaf zone, where Rousseau laced home a 20-foot slap-shot.

The results don't change the teams' positions in the league standings, but the Toronto-Montreal tie tightens up the race among the top four.

In Detroit, Gordie Howe scored the first of two goals with the game less than two minutes old. But Bruins came back with goals by Don McKenzie and Tom Williams before the end of the first period.

For Williams, 21-year-old from Duluth, Minn., it was his ninth goal of the season. All nine came after he was switched to Boston's top forward line with Johnny Bucyk and Murray Oliver in early November.

Rookie goalie Ed Johnston made many key saves for the Bruins, who were outshot 41-25.

In Montreal, Dick Duff scored two of the Leafs goals with his 18th of the season and Eddie Litzenberger got the others.

Montreal's scoring came from Richard, Rousseau, Geoffrion and Gilles Tremblay—his 14th of the year.

Richard scored the game's most dramatic goal 10 minutes later to tie the score 1-1 going into the second period. The lit-tle Montreal centre came in on Toronto goalie Johnny Bower, faked a pass in front of the net and then slid the puck behind Bower.

Toronto coach Punch Imlach said after the game Bower had injured Rousseau by accident.

"He was trying to get free from a bunch of players in the corner and his stick swung up and hit Rousseau's face. It was an accident. It was a pretty bad time to get a penalty."

Rousseau, who had collapsed bleeding from the face after he was hit, said tersely: "I'd prefer not to say anything." Team physician Bill Head said it was not immediately known whether Rousseau's nose had been broken.

Dave Getting to Know Way Around Front Line

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Dave Stothard moves back into the lineup, and that should eliminate some of the pain being felt by manager Wally Milligan because of injuries to other Victoria United players.

Milligan always feels better when Stothard's around. United, invariably, also plays better.

United meets North Shore in Saturday's Pacific Coast Soccer League set to at Royal Athletic Park and a sudden rash of leg ailments gives Milligan cause for concern.

Fullback Len Anderson and forwards George Paul, Henry Vanderhorst, Mel Cooper and Geoff Hill came up with assorted leg injuries as a result of last week's debate with Pilseners. Stothard missed that one, which ended in a 2-2 tie, because of holidays.

Paul, almost certainly, will not play. The rest are classed as "doubtful" and Milligan won't know his starting lineup until the 2 p.m. kickoff.

But Davy'll be there.

Here is a fullback acknowledged as one of the best in Canada. Named to several B.C. all-star teams, the 25-year-old civil servant is finding himself as a forward.

He still prefers the fullback's spot but Stothard agrees he is "getting used to" playing inside.

He scored only one goal in United's first five games. In his last five outings, Stothard has scored six times to become United's top marksman. Vanderhorst is next in line with five goals.

If Anderson, hobbling with a "charley-horse," does not play, Stothard will be moved back to his favorite position and Dunc McCraig will take over on the forward line.

Rookie Ash Waldal, who played so well last week against the Pils, is almost certain to be handed his second straight starting assignment.

Semifinals of the McGavin Cup competition come up Sunday for four teams of the District League's First Division, and Glen Robbins is one who will have to watch the action from the sidelines.

The Brodies' player and Tommy Locke of Esquimalt both were handed one-game suspensions, the aftermath of a recent fistfight display.

Brodies play Gorge at Heywood Avenue Park, while Kickers face Vic West at Topaz.

And while the pace may not be too fast, the soccer should be good Saturday, Jan. 5, when VMD plays Yarrows in the second of a two-game challenge series.

VMD, which won the first game 5-3, includes in its lineup such players as Einar Flatten, Pete Moran, Dick Nellesjijn, Bill Ackincklose, Jackie McMillan, Charlie Emerson, Henry Cannon and George Nairn.

On Yarrows' side are such as Willie Hamilton, Al Thompson, Charlie White, Willie McMillan, Jack Framp-ton, John McCartney and Al Young.

CORNER KICKS: United hasn't tasted victory for three outings. That includes a pair of draws.

Attendance at United home games is slightly ahead of last year's pace. Some 6,840 fans have turned out this season, for an average of $55 per game, while 6,049 saw Victoria's first eight matches a year ago.

The weather hasn't been as helpful this semester. Regular Second Division play has been suspended until Jan. 6 but the league's Drake team will keep fit by playing Esquimalt of the First Division in an exhibition at Naden on Sunday.

Jack Breuker's 16-goal effort for Eddys last weekend has given the 20-year-old forward top spot in the individual scoring race in the Second Division.

Teammate Chris Braun and Barry Bunyan of Drakes follow with 16 each.

Vancouver Canadians, who share PCSL leadership with Firefighters (both are a point ahead of United), will be missing two players for Saturday's match with Royal City at Vancouver.

John Gardiner and Bob Coyle both were injured in last week's game against Columbus.

Canadians have signed Stu Crossman. Neil Ellett of North Shore has been sidelined for five weeks with torn knee ligaments.

And left-winger Bobby Smith, a prolific scorer who left the Coast League last year, is returning to play with Columbus.

Smith agreed to return after a four-month chase by the club and extended haggling between Columbus and North Shore, which had owned PCL rights to the player.

He won the individual scoring race in 1959-60 and was runner-up in the next two seasons.

'Enthusiastic, Fit and Tough...'

BRISBANE, Australia (AP)—A former Australian Davis Cup player, now a professional, warned Thursday that Australia is in danger of losing the international tennis trophy next week to Mexico.

"This is a strong spirited and dedicated team," said Ain Ayre, once a ranking world performer. "I must admit I am greatly impressed by what the Mexicans have shown me."

Ayre watched Rafael Osuna and Antonio Palafox whisk through a two-hour afternoon workout on Milton Courts where the challenge round between Australia and Mexico is scheduled Dec. 26-28.

"These boys are nothing like the Italians who played here the last two years," the Australian professional added.

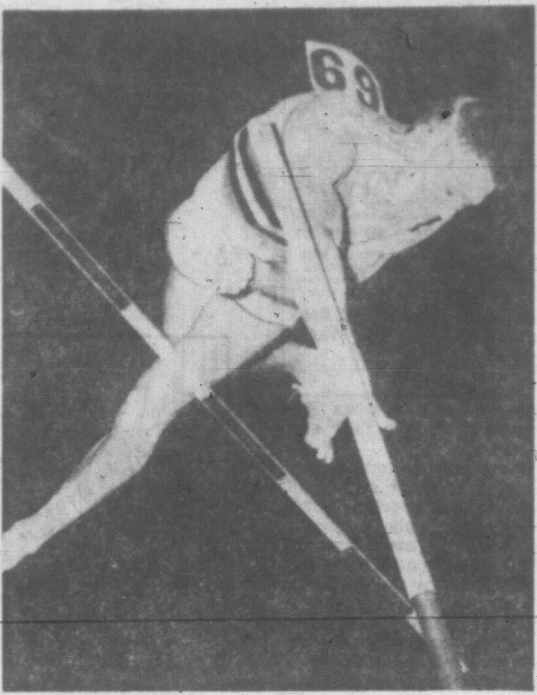

"They have enthusiasm for the game. They are fit and tough and they show a lot of talent. If they happen to have a good day on Tuesday we could be in trouble."

Ayre was particularly impressed with Osuna, Mexico's No. 1 player. "He has one of the finest backhands I have ever seen in tennis," Ayre said.

Up and Over to New World Record

HITS IN VAULT

Unknown Soars To World Mark

CHICAGO (AP)—Don Meyers, a shy young man who aspired merely to become a better known athlete, hit a jackpot far beyond his wildest dreams Thursday night by soaring 16 feet, 1 1/4 inches to a world's indoor pole vault record.

Meyers, 22, a physical education student at the University of Colorado, made a 1,000-mile overnight train trip sitting up in a coach to compete in the University of Chicago Track Club's 19th holiday meet.

"I wanted to make a good mark this year in a meet like this so I could get invited to other meets," he said.

Meyers, a slim, six-footer weighing 165 pounds, hit 13 feet, eight inches on his first try, using a glass-fibre pole he brought with him.

On his second vault, he cleared 14-6 and on his third 15-5.

The crossbar at the University of Chicago Fieldhouse then was raised to 16-1 1/4, half an inch above the world indoor mark.

Meyers cleared the cross-bar without brushing it amid an excited roar from the spectators. The approved record is 16-3 1/4 set by John Uelses of the United States in Boston Feb. 3.

MEYERS UNKNOWN

Meyers' best showing in competition had been 15-3. He achieved this height last year in trying for the U.S. collegiate title.

His top performance in practice was 15-8 and he is virtually unknown in top competition.

Meyers said he wants to go to the Pan-American Games in Brazil in April and hopes to compete in many other events.

The world outdoor mark is 16-2 1/4, set by Finland's Pentti Nikula at Kauhava, Finland, June 22. The top U.S. outdoor vault is 16-2 by Dave Tork at Walnut, Calif., April 28. Each used the controversial glass-fibre pole.

Meyers said he broke three glass-fibre poles getting used to them—but that the additional snap it imparts might produce a 17-foot mark in the near future.

But he did not predict he would be the one to reach that height.

Taylor's 'Double' Official

NEW YORK (AP)—Jim Taylor, Green Bay's driving fullback, became the third man in the history of the National Football League to double as both rushing champion and scoring leader.

Final official statistics show Taylor, who ended Jimmy Brown's five-year reign as rushing champion, ground out 1,474 yards in 272 attempts.

Taylor also set an NFL record by scoring 19 touchdowns and led the scorers with 114 points. Lou Michaels of Pittsburgh was next on 110 points that included 32 extra points and a record-breaking 26 field goals. Paul Hornung of Green Bay, scoring leader for three straight years, was out with injuries and finished 11th with 74 points.

The only others to make the rushing-scoring double in the NFL were Steve Van Buren of Philadelphia in 1945 and Brown of Cleveland in 1958.

Blades Do the Slicing, Totems' Edge Trimmed

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
Seattle Totems could slide down the Western Hockey League pole tonight, providing Vancouver Canucks can top Edmonton Flyers.

The Totems are in a skid. San Francisco Seals dumped the Northern Division leaders 6-3 Wednesday night and Thursday night the Totems lost 3-1 to Los Angeles Blades.

The Canucks are only one point behind Seattle and could pass them tonight when they win. Seattle's lone marksman was Bill MacFarland.

Los Angeles is in a second-place tie with San Francisco in the Southern Division.

There were 8,554 hometown fans on hand to see the Blades take a 1-0 lead in the first period. Seattle trailed 2-1 going into the third.

Marc Boileau, Lloyd Haddon and Bob Solinger scored for the Blades. Seattle's lone marksman was Bill MacFarland.

Milford Ousted

OMAHA, Neb.—Howie Milford has been fired as coach of Omaha Knights of the International Hockey League and replaced, at least temporarily, by defenceman Moe Benoit.

Player Costs Drop Cards Into Red Ink

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis baseball Cardinals suffered a $73,000 loss during 1962, general manager Bing Devine has announced.

Devine said the loss was due to team replacement expenses which amounted to $1,350,000.

The Cardinals, however, increased their home and road attendance this year, Devine said. This resulted in an increase in revenue over 1961 of $152,000, and contributed to an overall game operating profit of $1,217,000, before the player replacement expense.

Esquimalt Has Chance To Move Up

Hopes are high and the possible reward is undisputed possession of first place for Esquimalt as the Chiefs get set for tonight's Esquimalt District Hockey League encounter with Army.

First faceoff at 7:45.

Unbeaten in seven games, Chiefs aren't expected to have too much trouble with third-place Army in the feature game of a Sports Centre doubleheader.

The second game, starting at 9:30, matches Comox RCAF against Navy in an exhibition.

Pro Grid Offer For Rugby Star

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters)

—Forward Doug Hopwood of the South African Rugby Union was reported Thursday to have received an offer to play football in the U.S. for Detroit Lions of the National League.

According to the report, the Lions are willing to offer Hopwood a 17-day expenses-paid trip to Detroit to "look him over and talk to him."

GOLF SCHOOL

TAKE YOUR TIME!

Take your time on short putts. Don't rush up and tap the ball without thinking. It still counts one shot—the same as a 250-yard drive.

This is particularly true on the first hole or two of your round. You may not be familiar with the green, as yet. Your putting touch is probably not smooth as yet.

So, don't be anxious to get the ball in the hole. Take a moment to line up the putt unless it's just hanging on the lip. It won't slow your game down appreciably. When you have the proper line set in your mind, get up and over the ball as we show and stroke the ball into the cup.

SOLUTION MONDAY

LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Does a man 40 years old ever break down—while talking a business deal on the telephone—and burst into weeping?

That's what handsome Sydney Chaplin does in the play, "In the Counting House," and it's in dispute. Some people think that a good-looking guy with all sorts of girls interested in him wouldn't be crying—especially since the business he's in is lingerie.

For any man to try to weep on stage is a difficult dramatic assignment. For good-looking Chaplin to do it is especially difficult. Ostensibly he's crying because he has decided to go back to his wife—and never to leave the lingerie business. Now here's the salient point. Chaplin was eager to do the crying on stage! And did he ever cry real tears?

"Sometimes I didn't—but sometimes I did!" he told me.

When "Jumbo" producer Joe Pasternak cooked Hungarian goulash at our pad recently for 20 guests, he stayed in the kitchen in apron, amid pots and pans, until he got thirsty—then he walked into the living room and asked for a martini. He addressed his request to a young "borrowed" bartender who went over to his superior, and said, "What about this? Is it o.k. to serve a drink to the cook?"

Phil Silvers told our B.W. how much money he made letting his wife do the Jack Benny show. "She gets a new dress, a new beauty treatment... and you know Jack Benny... he pays scale!"

THE MIDNIGHT EARL

Foots Shor's celebrating the first anniversary of his new restaurant Dec. 27—and naturally hopes the newspaper strike'll be settled by then... Russell Nype, who soon returns to the supper club scene (he plays the Plaza), is writing a series of religious songs, rather unusual in this day. He already has an album titled, "Russell Nype Sings the Gospel Hit Parade"... And another B-way show's biting the dust: "Night Life."

Andy Porumbescu stopped at Monsignor before planning to Zurich to join Gambi and said that Audrey Hepburn will play his wife in the movie of their colorful elopement.

Princess Grace and Rainier long for a little privacy in their skiing this winter and are passing up Gstaad—the Swiss hangout of Liz Taylor, Richard Burton, Onassis, and Maria Callas, to winter-vacation at Villars-sur-Ollon... Carroll Baker wore a long black evening gown with full-length ermine coat to the press preview of "How the West Was Won" at Loew's Cinerama (formerly the Capital) and watched herself on the screen in old western clothes. There was a "buffalo charge" which roused applause from the audience including Robert Preston, who's in the picture but is not one of the buffaloes nor in that scene.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Overheard at a New York auction sale recently: "Sold—to the lady with her husband's hand over her mouth."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Little Bruce Prochnik, who has the title role in "Oliver" was dancing on stage in the Toronto tryout, and one lady nudged her friend in the audience and said, "Look at that Oliver Twist."

GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by you and those who submit the questions to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the same size.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to David Jaynes, age 8, of Mercer Island, Wash., for his question:

What Causes Plants to Have Galls?

Scientists have classified more than a quarter-million different plants, and some 2,000 more discoveries are added to the list every year. The plants share our world with more than a million different insects. A few insects seem to ignore the plant world, and a few are friendly helpers. Most insects feed on plant life, and a few of these vegetarians cause bumpy galls to grow on certain plants.

The honey bee is a fair trader. She takes pollen and sips nectar and in return she sows pollen grains from flower to flower, which helps fertilize a new generation of seeds. The locust and his clan devour greenery, giving nothing in return, and countless other insects declare open warfare on the plant world. Plants, of course, cannot defend themselves against devouring insects.

Grub Dines on Plant

The gall insect lays her egg or perhaps a dozen eggs in the plant tissues and goes on her way. Later each egg hatches into a grubby larva. In some

Meteorite Crashes

SEATTLE (AP)—An object, possibly a meteorite, exploded in a dark red ball of fire and blew a hole 15 feet across in a gravel pit midway between Seattle and Tacoma Wednesday night.

A large oak tree is not bothered by a few galls. They contain bitter tannin which may be used to make dyes and inks. Peach crops, roses and blackberries may be damaged seriously by gall insects, and a certain gall fly causes untold damage to the wheat crops of North America. Some day we hope to discover how a plant is tricked into providing shelter and protection for the gall fly which feeds upon it.

BERLIN (AP)—A West Berlin newspaper reported Wednesday that Chancellor Adenauer's government has agreed to grant the Communist East German regime a credit of $250,000,000. The Spandauer Volksblatt said the credit would be repaid by deliveries of various exports during a five-year period.

City Future Good Under 'Fine Mayor'

High praise was showered on Mayor R. B. Wilson Thursday by a retiring alderman.

Ald. Michael Griffin delivered his swan song to the last council meeting of the year by letter. He was unable to attend the closing session because of another commitment.

He paid tribute to his colleagues, the civic staff and press.

"In closing, may I suggest that the City of Victoria has an excellent team in city council and an able captain," he wrote.

"I urge you to continue to act as a team-unit under the capable leadership of an extremely fine and dedicated mayor."

Robs U.S. Mail Truck
BOSTON (AP)—A U.S. mail truck was robbed of registered mail Thursday night by three men after the truck driver was tricked by a man wearing a carrier's uniform.
William F. White, chief postal inspector for New England, said the thieves stole between $2,000 and $2,500 in cash.
The robbery occurred in the heavily-populated Dorchester district.

Walker Zooms X-15 To More Records
EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—An X-15 rocket plane shot into space Thursday and returned safely from the highest altitude yet attempted with its big bottom fin removed.
Preliminary information indicated a top speed of 3,886 miles an hour and an altitude of 137,000 feet.
A U.S. Space Agency spokesman said it was the first time the X-15 had gone high enough and fast enough without the ventral fin to meet conditions future spacecraft will encounter re-entering the atmosphere.
At the controls was test pilot Joseph A. Walker, who has reached 246,000 feet and 4,104 miles an hour with the ventral fin in place.

Sheepskins (Real Ones) Needed Fast
Sheepskins—not the kind that make you a university graduate—are urgently needed by the producers of the Christmas sacred opera, "Amahl and the Night Visitors."
"Amahl" concerns an episode on the journey of the three kings to Bethlehem, their visit to a poor widow and her crippled son, and some shepherds.
The opera is being produced in Christ Church Cathedral, Dec. 27, 28 and 29 and from Jan. 2 through 5. To heighten the atmosphere of a pastoral but cold winter's night, the producers require sheep skins which were the principal source of warmth in biblical times.
Anyone having such, or even goatskins, or old wolf or deer hides and who would be willing to loan them, is asked to phone the director, Mrs. Audrey Johnson at GR 7-3138 or EV 2-3131.

Snowdon 'Cleared' By Newspaper Union
LONDON (Reuters)—Britain's National Union of Journalists said Thursday it had decided to take no action over a protest concerning Lord Snowdon, Princess Margaret's husband, who is a member of the union.
Snowdon is artistic adviser to The Sunday Times, a newspaper owned by Canadian publisher Roy Thomson. He joined the union last February.
The union said its administrative committee had considered a resolution passed Nov. 19 by the periodical and book branch urging the union to protest to The Sunday Times at the manner in which it was ex-

Judge Reserves Decision On Big Estate

Mr. Justice R. A. Wootton reserved judgment in B.C. Supreme Court here Wednesday in a legal battle over the will of Frank Schechter, 74-year-old bachelor who died here May 2, 1961.

Mr. Schechter willed that the benefits from his $355,624 estate should be used to purchase land in Palestine (now Israel), the United States or "any British Dominions" for the establishment of a Jewish colony or colonies.

Relatives living in the United States challenged the validity of the bequest through Victoria lawyer, D. M. Gordon, Q.C. who argued that the Jewish fund was not a charitable trust.

Louis Lindholm appeared for the Jewish National Fund in New York, which asked the court to uphold the validity of the bequest.

The manufacture of pulp and paper for many years has been Canada's leading industry in production value, exports, total wages paid and total capital investment.

Tired of Toddlies? Try Treat of Ginger

By ARTHUR MAYSE

Christmas in Victoria wears a subtle tinge of the Orient, thanks to a group of long-term residents who haven't forgotten the wisdom of their ancestors.

Even Victoria-born and thoroughly Westernized members of the Chinese community know, for instance, that dwellers in a cool country should eat ginger, also that lily bulbs are best planted in sand, and that the appropriate flower for December is the chrysanthemum.

These lavish white, yellow and bronze pompoms we glimpse on favored porches at Christmastime are grown by a band of elderly Chinese gardeners who came to Victoria in their youth, and in many instances, still serve the families they "adopted" when they got off the boat. The loyalty these gentle old men offer and evoke is bone-deep. They're sweet, fussy, often tyrannical—and they probably nurture the finest chrysanthemums on earth.

One of these master gardeners is How Lin Fung Wai, who for the past 37 years and three months, has provided Mrs. Dave Spencer's gracious hilltop home at 2906 Cook Street with flowers.

How's gorgeous autumn

and winter 'mums are his and Mrs. Spencer's pride. He grew 350 pots this year, most of which have gone as gifts to family friends. Each spring—March for October blooms and May for his Christmas beauties—How plants selected cuttings from last year's stock in flats filled with sand and compost.

When the plants are two or three inches high, he trims them to leave only the best of the flower-bearing stalks. His plants then go into large clay pots to be watered, pruned of excess buds and fed with fertilizer of How's own mixing.

PASSED TO SONS

He learned his art from growers who were old when he was young, and is passing it on to Ronnie and Edward, the sons who Mrs. Spencer liked How bring with his wife, from China.

"How is my age," says Mrs. Spencer, "and I will be 75 this New Year's Eve."

For information on ginger and lily bulbs—traditional yule gifts of the Chinese vegetable truck pilot to customer friends, the man to see is Figgard Street merchant Jack Lee.

10,000 BARS
Mr. Lee, Victoria-born UBC graduate, imports from Kwantung Province a ton of dry bulk ginger each year and close to 10,000 jars of the tongue-nipping confection preserved in syrup.
But ginger, says Jack Lee, is more than a Christmas taste treat.
In Chinese lore, ginger is beneficial to health, and has water-purifying qualities. In a cold climate, it warms the blood. For this reason, old people need ginger more than the vigorous young, who are better advised to cool themselves with ginseng, another tuborous root treasured by the Chinese apothecary.
The so-called Christmas lily is in rather short supply this year. Mr. Lee was able to import only 4,000 bulbs from Communist China, instead of his usual 10,000.

COUNT BACK
"Almost all the bulbs are bought to be given away," he explains. "A bulb takes from 30 to 40 days to flower, so you count back from the week you want it to bloom, and plant it accordingly. Always in damp sand, preferably in a cool basement. A week before you want the flowers to come out, shift the bulb to pebbles in water and bring it upstairs."
Correct blooming time for this member of the narcissus family is Chinese New Year, to be celebrated next Jan. 25. Designation for 1963—which should be a lucky one—is "Year of the Rabbit."

HERE are three ingredients of Victoria's Orient-flavored Christmas: a Chinese lily bulb and preserved ginger, both imported, plus one small,

happy local product aged four. Robert is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lee, 2298 Lansdowne. (Times photos by Bill Halkett.)

MONTE ROBERTS

For the benefit of the vast minority who may be remotely interested, all I want for Christmas is to be editor of the letters to the editor column, for just one day, and no holds barred.

Like so:
Sir:
The only way out of the mess we are in is to embrace the principles of neotheosolicism.
Of course, being the tool of the powerful, entrenched forces which are so much against neotheosolicism, you will not dare to print this. INDIGNANT.

Ed. Note: Print what?
Sir:
The only way out of the mess we are in is to establish an antineotheosolicismic movement.
Of course, being the tool of the powerful, entrenched forces which are so much FOR neotheosolicism, you will not dare print this. VERY INDIGNANT.

Ed. Note: What mess?
Sir:
As a wife and mother, I must rise to protest the infamous deals Canada is making with Red China, selling wheat and barley and oats and rye, while we at home are hard put to afford a reasonable amount of rye, let alone all those other things the names of which I forget at the moment. VERY INDIGNANT MOTHER.

Ed. Note: Have you tried comin' through, instead of goin' through, the rye?

Sir:
Christmas is much too commercial. The Big Interests have taken over. The True Spirit of Christmas is No More. This was never more in Evidence than This Year.

This Year, my children began making Rag Dolls for the Christmas Market last August. But they found this was Too Late. Not only did the Big Interests get Their Rag Dolls on the Market sooner, they undersold My Children all down the line.

Is there no Justice?
VERY INDIGNANT MOTHER OF NINE.

Ed. Note: No.
Sir:
I write with reference to a line which appeared in your paper, under the heading: Traffic Fines.

"John Snrff, $15, 31 miles per hour in 30 mile zone."

I wish to strongly protest the publication of this item, and state I am not—repeat, NOT, the John Snrff who was fined $15 for exceeding the speed limit.

This has done unrepairable harm to my reputation, as my driving record shows only two impaired convictions, three reckless driving, five licence, suspensions, five convictions for driving while under suspension, and assaulting a police officer in the course of his duties.

I demand a retraction.
JOHN (Just Plain Indignant) SNRRFF.

Ed. Note: Retraction granted.

HOW LIN FUNG WAI checks a few of his Yule blooms for unwanted buds or 'bugs. "Not my best," says the silver-haired gardener who for over 37 years has grown fine chrysanthemums for Mrs. Dave Spencer.

$50 Fines For Bulb Snatchers

Three youths who led police on a merry chase early this morning while snatching lights from Christmas trees on downtown streets were fined $50 each in police court.

They had stolen $4 worth of lights between them.

Hans Isdahl, 19, of 2618 Roseberry; Gary Brown, 19, of 451 Wilkinson, and Anthony Stokes, 20, of 420 Springfield, all pleaded guilty.

"I am afraid I don't look upon this as a prank," Magistrate William Ostler told the accused when passing sentence.

"There are plenty of things you could do to help people who need it this time of year, if you have so much excess energy," he said.

STATE HEADS PLAN MESSAGES

The annual Commonwealth Christmas Message by Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II will be telecast at 10 a.m. Christmas Day to be followed by an address by Prime Minister Diefenbaker on Channels 2 and 6.

The program also will be carried on CBC radio (CJVL 900 kc. and CBU, 690 kc.) at the same time.

The radio messages will be rebroadcast at 7:10 p.m. the same day and The Queen's message only will be telecast again on Channels 2 and 6 at 11:09 p.m.

Exam System Certain On Police Promotions

A new promotion system will be instituted for the city police department in the New Year, it was disclosed today.

The system approved by police commission will have two distinctive features:

A basic written examination which will have to be taken by all members wishing to become eligible for promotion;

A promotions board which will screen applicants for particular promotions and recommend its choices to Police Chief John Blackstock for final decision.

MODIFICATION

The new system is a modification of the plan favored by Mayor R. B. Wilson who doubles as police commission chairman.

He had hoped the policemen's union—which recently agitated for a promotions board—would agree to name representatives to the screening board as is done by the Vancouver police department. However, the local union declined direct participation.

Under the new system, all members of the force below rank of inspector will have the opportunity of joining the "promotion panel" by taking a voluntary written test to qualify.

Only those who make the panel will be able to apply for promotions when they become available.

These applicants will be screened by the promotions board—composed of the deputy chief, inspectors and representatives of the police commission.

Funeral Monday For Long-Time E and N Official

Maurice Hector Barry, assistant to the manager of the land department, Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway, died in St. Joseph's Hospital Thursday night at the age of 59.

"The land office will be closed on Monday out of respect for Mr. Barry," William M. Sloan, manager, said today. Born at Cobble Hill, Mr. Barry had been with the land department 43 years and was known to most loggers on Vancouver Island.

Funeral services at Sands Mortuary Monday at 3 p.m. will be conducted by Canon George Biddle.

Mr. Barry, who lived at 3109 Glasgow Avenue, was a member of the Far West Lodge No. 1, Knights of Pythias; a life member of Gorge Vale Golf Club and the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans No. 12.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Regular field trips of the junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will be cancelled this weekend.

The Nature House at Francis Park will be open on Sunday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

City council Thursday ordered preparation of a bylaw to sell $245,000 debentures to raise the cash to complete acquisition of property for the civic precinct.

The debentures will be issued under the $950,000 bylaw passed by ratepayers last week.

Arbitration of a civic union grievance was adjourned Thursday at City Hall to Dec. 28.

Col. F. McLean of Vancouver, is chairman of the arbitration board hearing the city "outside staff" union complaint that a senior waterworks employee was passed over in appointment of a new foreman.

Also on the board are city representative George Wilkinson and union nominee, Max Pierrotti.

FIVE DAYS OF FREEDOM FOR 7,000

A five-day Christmas holiday starts tonight for some 7,000 people in Greater Victoria who work for various levels of government.

Federal, provincial, civic and municipal employees will quit work tonight and they won't come back until next Thursday morning.

But they'll have a chance to do that last-minute Christmas shopping on Monday, Christmas Eve, because the banks and stores will be open.

Civil servants, except for a few employees in essential posts, such as hospitals, are off for five days.

All Greater Victoria municipalities are following suit by agreement.

Peter Howard Dootson, charged with attempted murder Oct. 19, was committed for trial in higher court on Thursday.

Commitment of the former psychiatric aide at the Wilkinson Road Mental Home came after the seventh sitting of his preliminary hearing.

Dr. Brodie Cupples told Saanich police court that his patient, 64-year-old Robert Robinson, will not be able to testify for at least three months.

The new B.C. director on the board of the Canadian Kennel Club is Mrs. J. W. Anderson of 3026 McAnally Road.

Mrs. Anderson, who at one time was president of the Hong Kong Kennel Club, is a breeder of basenjis, the dogs from the Congo that never bark.

She has lived in Victoria since 1951. The Canadian Kennel Club is the principal dog owners' association in this country.

The 57-voice B.C. Telephone Choir, conducted by Leslie W. Monk, will appear tonight at 7 o'clock on Channel 2 in a half-hour of televised Christmas music. Each member of the choir will be costumed in a manner appropriate to the era of Charles Dickens—the mid 1800's.

The choir will also be heard over radio station CJVI (900 kc.) Sunday afternoon at 4.

Saanich police are looking for witnesses to an accident Wednesday evening at Cedar Hill Cross Road and Blenkinsop which sent a 15-year-old cyclist to hospital, with abrasions.

Robert Palmer, of 3959 Cedar Hill Cross Road, was thrown from his bicycle when in collision with a car at about 5:15 p.m. He was released from hospital after treatment.

The RCAF mess at Quadra and Yates will hold open house on New Year's Day from 11 to 12 noon. It will not be restricted to invited guests, as reported earlier.

Kenneth Hardon, 5225 Pat Bay Highway, and Michael Griffith-Warwick, 522 Dalton, each were fined $35 in Saanich police court Thursday for practising as private investigators without a licence.

They were apprehended by police after a woman complained of two prowlers in her garden about 5 a.m.

They claimed they had followed a man they were investigating to the address.

John Wood, 7022 East Saanich, was found guilty in city police court Thursday on three counts of uttering forged cheques. He was remanded to Dec. 27 for probation report and sentence.

Magistrate A. I. Thomas said there was "no doubt" in his mind he was guilty.

He had been charged with passing $388 worth of forged cheques in November.

B.C. Penitentiary warden T. W. Hall today said he will meet City Hall officials next month to discuss possibility of establishing improvements at Duran Lake as a rehabilitation project for model prisoners.

At the suggestion of some prison officials several months ago, city council expressed interest in allowing prisoners at William Head minimum security establishment to undertake a park development program for the city-owned Duran Lake property.

Warden Hall said in a letter it would be "useful" to have preliminary discussions about the project and suggested a meeting be arranged between Jan. 14 and 18 here.

Who Needed $90 More Than They?

Judge Acclaims Appointment Of Successor

Appointment of Victorian lawyer Montague Tyrwhitt-Drake as judge of the county court here was received with acclamation today.

"I think it is an excellent choice," said Judge J. B. Clearline, who retired as judge of the county court Thursday—on reaching the age of 75. "I am very happy over Mr. Drake's appointment."

A former Rhodes Scholar, Judge Clearline will continue his activities as Tyrwhitt-Drake chairman of Victoria College Council, a position he has held for 17 years.

Attorney General Robert Bonner said he was "delighted" to hear of the appointment of Judge Tyrwhitt-Drake.

ADDS LUSTRE

"He will add lustre to the county court and I am sure he will have the goodwill of all members of the bar. The opportunity for young and active members of the bar to reach the bench should be encouraged."

Judge Tyrwhitt-Drake, who is 40, is the grandson of Montague William Tyrwhitt-Drake, who came to Victoria from England in 1859 and served here as attorney-general and judge of the B.C. Supreme Court.

He is the son of the late Brian H. Tyrwhitt-Drake, who was Supreme Court registrar from 1900 to 1937.

AT ST. MICHAEL'S

Born in Victoria on Oct. 14, 1922, the new judge was educated at St. Michael's School for Boys, Victoria, Shawinigan Lake School, Victoria College and McGill University.

As a member of the Canadian Black Watch Regiment, he served with various British infantry battalions during the Second World War.

He was twice nominated as Conservative candidate for the B.C. Legislature in 1953 and 1956, but was unsuccessful.

Until his appointment as judge, he was a member of the law firm of Manzer, Drake, Wootton, Patterson and Macdonald.

After receiving his law degree from UBC, he was called to the bar of B.C. in 1949 and to the Ontario bar in 1950.

He is a member of the advisory boards of the Salvation Army and the Greater Victoria Art Gallery and has been a director of Victoria Symphony Society since 1959.

Did the person who found the purse need the $90 more than the Soderman family?

Mrs. John Soderman of Munn Road, Langford, is the mother of seven children ranging in age from 1½ to 13 years.

Her husband is unable to work at his job of window-washer because of an ear condition for which he is going to have an operation. It is hoped the operation will restore the balance he must have for his work.

Mrs. Soderman was in town last Friday shopping for gifts and food for her family for Christmas.

WELFARE PAYMENT

She had $90 in her purse, some of it in welfare payment and some from her monthly family allowance cheque.

The purse was heavy and she placed it in the buggy in which she was pushing one and-a-half-year-old Mary.

Either Mary kicked it out or some shopper in the crowds picked it out of the pram.

Either way, it must have been in the possession of someone.

There were identification papers in the purse. But in the week since its loss, nothing has been sent the Sodermans.

ALL THEY HAD

So they ask: Does someone need it more than we?

The $90 was all the Sodermans had. He has been unemployed nearly a year.

Civil Defence

Mother Organizes Petticoat Brigade

Organization of the first petticoat rescue brigade in B.C.—if not all Canada—is under way by Victoria-Esquamalt civil defence.

Main spring of the effort is a versatile mother of one, Mrs. Winifred M. MacLeod, a recent arrival to Victoria from Prince Edward Island, who has passed federal rescue course at Civil Defence College, Arnprior.

In addition to being a qualified heavy rescue instructor, Mrs. MacLeod has had courses in civil defence orientation, first aid and radiation monitoring, is a nurse's aide and a member of the reserve army.

During the Second World War she served with the RAF women's division and the Canadian Women's Army Corps.

JANUARY START

Co-ordinator V. S. Godfrey said the 10-week course is being set up for a start in early January. Sessions will be at CD headquarters, 1840 Blanshard, and an open area where teams can practice.

They will be held one evening a week, probably Tuesdays.

Mr. Godfrey said 20-30 candidates will be sought, from the age group 16-40, who will be required to pass a medical examination for fitness.

CANVASED

High schools, the YWCA, women's clubs and other groups will be canvassed for participants.

Mr. Godfrey said the rescue course will not be quite as strenuous as the one given to Provincial welfare officials say the Sodermans will not go hungry.

But they are unable to provide the gifts Mrs. Soderman had planned for the children. One person has come forward on hearing of the family's plight.

A woman, who wished to remain anonymous, inquired of the Times on the state of the family, and on hearing of their need, has sent $5 to Mr. Soderman's mother, Mrs. Ada Soderman, at 112 Dallas Road.

It was sent the grandmother of the seven children because their Munn Road home is remote and possibly would not be reached by mail in time for Christmas.

FOR GIFTS

Grandmother Soderman said today she would see the money was spent on presents for the children.

"John, he's 13, is hockey-mad," she said. "I know he was going to get a hockey stick before this happened."

The other children, Bunney, 12; Judy, 10; Bonnie, 8; Gary, 6; Terry, 5, and the baby Mary, needed clothing more than anything else, she said.

"But I suppose they'd rather have dolls and books, and things like that," Mrs. Soderman added.

men, but it would remain basically the same.

Mrs. MacLeod and rescue training officer Clint Fotheringham will share instruction duties, with assistance from Frank Burrows.

ASK The TIMES

Q. Why are only members of the Press Gallery allowed to take a pad and pencil into a meeting of the legislature? D.B.

A. The tradition dates back to the early years of British Parliament, even before there were newspapers such as we know them today.

The first "reporter" of Parliament was the Clerk of the House, who was appointed by its members because they were afraid their legislation would be altered by the King or perverted in the early newssheets posted in public places. Subsequently, the right to decide who could report proceedings rested with the Speaker, and every year, at the opening of a session in British Columbia a resolution is passed reaffirming his authority.

The Speaker has designated only the Press Gallery as reporters. He could, if he wished, extend the privilege, or curtail it.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem story to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it discuss or suggest. These should be committed to a dealer.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Serve Danish Pretzels At Holiday Parties

By PENNY SAVER

In one sense Christmas dinner is the easiest party of the year because the menu has already been planned by your ancestors. All that remains to be done is pick up your turkey, stuff it, make the cranberry sauce, mash the turnips and warm up mince pies and plum pudding. Sounds simple doesn't it?

But what does call for a little planning are the small parties for friends and neighbors. Have you thought of ordering a Danish pretzel and setting this out on the table so guests can help themselves. Serve a cup of coffee and then you can sit down and relax with your company.

The price of the pretzel depends on the size, so you can order according to your purse.

Danish pastry, made in the shape of a Christmas tree, and decorated with chunks of colored fruit and set in a marzipan base is only one dollar and looks, oh, so tempting. It is a flaky pastry filled with almond paste and covered with bits of glazed fruit.

Another specialty in this store is simnel cake. This is a fruit cake with a thick layer of marzipan in the middle. Large chunks of fruit are placed on the icing and a frill of pastry borders the top. Small cakes are $1.50 and would make a wonderful gift for a shut-in.

Round shortbread cakes are another present that fits into this category. The small ones are only fifty cents.

Plum puddings, made from an old English recipe passed on to this baker over 40 years ago, are rapidly disappearing. They sell for around a dollar and up.

One more treat, the piece de resistance at the end of a great feast, is mint flavored meringues at 50 cents a dozen. Phone Penny at 382-3131 before the plum puddings are gone.

THE BETTER HALF

"Wow! Hurry up with your shopping, will you?—I gotta' get home and make sure our chimney isn't plugged!"

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

If Trying to Gain Weight, Try Five Small Meals a Day

Q.—I am 17 years old, five feet ten-and-a-half inches tall and weigh 117 pounds. I have small bones but they are very long as you can tell by my height. People say I am not thin but I think I'm skinny. My measurements are bust 35 inches, waist 21 inches and hips 35 inches. If I am underweight please tell me how much. I have gained a lot of weight since I stopped modelling, but I have only a model's statistics to judge my figure by. How can I gain?

A.—Thought of how thin one must be to model is frightening! Of course, the camera does add at least 10 pounds as compared to real life.

You are correct. You are underweight. Even with small bones you should weigh about 130 pounds. Even if you added 10 pounds, you would be lovely, and don't worry if your waist measurement expands a few inches.

You must have cut your calorie count very low to achieve such a small weight as you have had. Your stomach has probably shrunk. I suggest that you eat five small meals a day for a while rather than trying to stuff yourself with three large meals.

The most important thing is to be sure that you get all of the essentials of good nutrition in those five meals. Do not make the mistake of stuffing down a lot of fried, rich food because of its high calorie count.

You can afford whole milk instead of skim milk and some of those desserts and butter-dunked potatoes which I CAN NOT afford. Lucky you! Just do not push your weight too hard or too fast. Give your stomach time to expand a bit. Also remember that enough sleep is important.

Q.—I do not understand about exercise. Some say it builds you up and others that it slims you down.

A.—Both views are true in a way. Exercise is a normalizer of the figure. It redistributes weight more attractively. It builds curves when muscles are under-developed and works off fatty deposits too. The kind of exercise you take for a figure defect is important.

If any of you are worried about curves for the bust, you may want to have my booklet, "Your Bust." It gives you information about bras and care of the bust during pregnancy and other information. If you would like to have a copy, send 10 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request for it. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

BE SMART—

DEAR ABBY . . .

Not Good Enough!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I admit I don't keep a very clean house but it's not my fault. My mother hated housework and she never bothered much with housekeeping. She taught me to put the housework last and said, "If you don't clean your house, your husband will." Maybe this is a poor excuse, but it's the truth and I just had to get it off my chest.

POOR HOUSEKEEPER

DEAR ABBY: Your mother's advice sounds like a feeble excuse for poor housekeeping. To complete the picture she should have added, "There are many husbands who are mopping the floor with their wives every day." Get organized, Honey.

DEAR ABBY: Please print this for some girls who need it. It expresses my feelings and the feelings of many of my friends. If a girl doesn't wear lipstick—even if she isn't so hot—I would sooner kiss her than the girl with lipstick, because guys who come home with lipstick on their shirts almost get killed by their mothers. I thank you.

FIFTEEN AND ALMOST KILLED ONCE

DEAR ABBY: You may consider this a silly question, but please, darling, try to help me. I have just lost my fifth garbage can! The last one I painted with black enamel. "Please do not steal this can." And I put my address on it. My neighbor said she saw a man stop and get out of a Cadillac car and he took it. Can you imagine anything so cheap and dirty? So this morning I put my garbage in a Maison Blanc bag, and the garbage collector refused to take it. Is this the way they take care of a beautiful avenue? The authorities pay me no attention. Can you give me a solution?

MRS. MARIE DE M. DEAR MARIE: Telephone your department of public health and ask them to put you in touch with the sanitation department. Then tell them your story! If you get no results, take it right up to the mayor! (The problem—not the garbage.)

DEAR ABBY: My 22-year-old son came home heartbroken last night. He has been working and saving his money for a year to marry what we thought was a fine girl. He surprised her with a diamond ring and she refused it, saying she would rather wait until he could afford a bigger one. She said she would rather have no diamond than a small one. Is this modern thinking?

HEARTSICK MOTHER.

DEAR MOTHER: No. There have always been girls who place a great deal of importance on the size of a diamond. Tell your son to save the little gem for a girl who appreciates it. And him.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

TODAY'S RECIPE

JELLY CHEESE DREAMS

One cup butter, 1/4 cup sugar, 1 cup shredded medium or old Cheddar cheese, 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour.

Cream the butter and sugar. Add cheese and combine thoroughly. Gradually add flour and stir until well mixed. Pat mixture into a 10-inch square pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until very lightly browned around edges, about 20 minutes.

TOPPING: Two cups tart red jelly, 1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar, 1/2 cup sifted all-purpose flour, 1/3 cup butter. Spread jelly evenly over the baked mixture. Mix brown sugar and flour, add butter and blend well with a pastry blender. Sprinkle on top of jelly. Return to oven and bake until lightly browned, about 15 minutes. Cut in rectangles 1" x 2". Makes about 50 rectangles.

Frog's Legs Make the Gentleman

By PAT DUFOUR

If you get a can of roasted bees in your Christmas stocking don't head for the hills—or the bicarbonate! Really, they don't taste that badly.

I had a bee-bit the other day when I was making a round of the food specialty stores and it didn't taste the slightest bit odd—at least, not until I was told what the crunchy morsel was!

Having fondly deluded myself that only the most discriminating of epicureans went in for such off-beat items I had a hard job maintaining a "poker face" when a ruddy-cheeked mailman walked in and asked for a can of smoked frog legs.

"How do they taste?" I asked him. Wheeling round, a little shame-facedly he replied, "I don't know yet. My wife is always at me to be more of a gentleman so I thought I'd start by taking these home for supper!"

Three stores and two sore feet later, I was able to summarize that most Victorians buy these items for similar joshing capers.

FROM ANTS TO WHALES

There was the naval officer I discovered who has filled his Christmas shopping list with such things as chocolate-covered ants, fried silkworms, quail eggs, roasted caterpillars and whale meat.

One store assistant told me that they'd had two shipments of rattlesnake meat sold out in no time flat. All were bought by pranksters who preferred distributing odd food to the proverbial "hot foot"! And, what's more, the store was still being badgered for more.

One woman, only here a few months from England, mailed a can of chocolate-covered ants to her family "back home" because they refused to believe that such a delectable morsel existed.

One husband I chatted with left with a can of smoked cod livers in his pocket. "These," he said, "are for my wife. She's always after the youngsters to take their cod liver oil. I figure what's good for the goose is good for the gander." He softened his remarks with a cheerful grin.

THE CAVIAR "CLUB"

"Some Victorians," said assistant Miss Margaret Gelfrey, "do enjoy eating caviar. We have the black Russian variety made from sturgeon or the red American version, made from salmon."

My plebeian fancies found me imagining her customers seated around a Roman fashion, as they combined their caviar with all sorts of succulent side dishes.

"Not so," she corrected. Mostly, they chill it and serve it on a little plain Melba toast. Ah me, so much for my dreams!

What would be my decision were I destined to taste one of these unusual foods?

My choice fluctuated between jars of Scottish strawberries or raspberries, each ruby-red in their generous packing of brandy. After all, with brandy anything would taste good!

College Dance

There will be 650 guests when students of Victoria College and their friends gather in the Crystal Garden this evening for the college's Christmas dance, sponsored by the Students' Council. Special guests will be Dr. W. H. Hickman, principal, and Mrs. Hickman, and other faculty members and their wives. Dress will be semi-formal and guests will dance to the music of Bert Zala and Joe Moore's orchestra. Conveyers are Miss Cathy Hatch and Jack May.

Students Rejoin Families

College students from out-of-town are arriving now to spend the holidays with their families.

Among those arriving today from University of British Columbia are Mr. David Bowering, a third year engineering student and son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bowering of Beach Drive; Miss Karen Dickson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dickson of Rockland Avenue; Mr. Peter Kerr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Kerr of Cadboro Bay Road and Mr. Sandy Green, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph L. Green of Queen Anne Heights.

Mr. Jon Stott, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Stott of Crescent Road arrived from UBC earlier this week. He will spend Christmas Day with his parents then leave for a 10-day holiday in Spokane, Wash., on Boxing Day.

Mr. Wick Wilson, son of Mayor and Mrs. R. B. Wilson, arrived from the mainland university on Sunday. Also here from UBC is Mr. Murray Halkett, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Halkett of Midland Road.

Of Personal Interest

Smorgasbord Party

Mr. and Mrs. Graham Harris will entertain a party of friends at the pre-Christmas smorgasbord in the Empress Hotel tonight. Honor guest will be Mrs. Helen Ingram who arrived this afternoon from San Francisco and will be a house guest in the Harris home on Foul Bay Road for the holiday weekend. Mrs. Ingram will be remembered in Victoria as the former Miss Helen Baird.

At Home Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Huckin, 1740 Bay Street, who are celebrating their diamond wedding anniversary on December 24, will be "at home" on Sunday, from 2 to 5 p.m. Mr. and Mrs. Williams were married in Oxfordshire, England, in 1902 and have lived in Victoria since 1914. Mr. Donald Huckin, Mr. Kenneth Huckin and Mrs. Edward (Irene) Thomas, all of Victoria, will be with their parents for the anniversary. There are 10 grandchildren and 20 great-grandchildren.

Visit Three Countries at Christmas

Members of the University Women's Club took brief trips to Poland, Italy and Norway when they met at the Gordon Head campus of Victoria College, Wednesday evening. Their "trip" was to see Christmas as it is observed in those countries.

"Poland's Christmas," said Miss E. Kenda, "does not usually involve the giving of gifts. Beginning four weeks before Christmas—there's a period of reflection and prayer culminating in a vigil on Christmas Eve when the children are sent outdoors to watch for the first star."

At the sight of the star, the feast begins with 12 dishes being set on the table in memory of the 12 apostles.

"In Italy," said Mrs. Yolande McKimmie, "the Christmas Eve dinner is called the White Dinner and consists of spaghetti with a fish sauce. For good luck, there are nine dishes on the table."

'LUCKY' ASHES

Christmas Day dinner is in complete contrast with turkey, ham and many other foods. A bonfire is lit in the town square and when the fire dies, the townspeople gather the ashes as a good luck symbol.

Chocolates trim the tree and are given as a reward for good behavior to the children. Coals are received by the children who have been bad.

Describing Christmas in rural Norway, Mrs. R. Jorde explained how a sheaf of wheat is placed on a pole for the birds and special treats given the barnyard animals.

One of the Christmas Day privileges is to be served breakfast in bed. It is usually the eldest daughter who is appointed to serve the schnapps, coffee and cakes that make up the morning meal. Spareribs are featured at the Christmas dinner.

All three women were in their country's native dress. Miss Eleanor Gilstein and Master Rolf Gilstein, relatives of Mrs. Jorde, joined her in singing Norwegian carols. Miss Gilstein played accordion accompaniment.

Mrs. B. P. Allard led other carol singing that rounded out the evening. Miss Marjorie M. Horner played piano accompaniment.

Mrs. Welham Honored on Day of Retirement

Staff members of the district treasury office of the national health and welfare department gathered Thursday afternoon to honor Mrs. David (Lily) Welham, who was completing her last day in the office before retirement.

A presentation was made to Mrs. Welham by E. R. Edwards, district treasury officer, and Miss Georgina Harper presented her with a gardenia corsage.

Fellow workers gathered recently to honor Mrs. Welham at the Cloverdale Avenue home of Mrs. M. Simpson. Colorful slides of Europe were shown and a buffet supper served. Those present were Mrs. Pat Robinson and the Misses Elizabeth Wright, Isabel Price, Joan Bailey, Clare Bryant and Helen Moran.

Mrs. M. Baird and Miss

Miss Margery Vaughan, well-known music teacher in Victoria, is leaving her students and her church activities for further music study in England. On Monday she goes to the mainland where she will spend a few weeks, then return briefly to Victoria to assist students with their music examinations before her final departure for England in February.

Louise Michaux entertained at another party held at the Baird home on the Island Highway. Those present were Mrs. E. R. Edwards, Mrs. V. O'Connell, Mrs. D. White, Mrs. M. Finland, Mrs. V. Maxwell, Mrs. W. Woodman, Misses Georgie Richardson and Ida Crews.

Staff of the treasury office held a no-host dinner party at the Princess Mary for Mrs. Welham. Acting as host was the district treasury officer, E. R. Edwards. Following dinner a dessert party was held at the home of Miss Alice Moolin.

CLUB PARTY

A group of members of Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club, of which Mrs. Welham is a past president, gathered recently at the home of Mrs. M. Rust, to honor her. Bingo was played and color slides of British Columbia were shown. Co-hostess was Mrs. Madge Hall. Other invited guests were some past presidents of the club, Mrs. Clare Lord, Mrs. Bessie Smith, Mrs. Lillian Smith, Mrs. Ruby Masters, Miss Ella-Brett, Miss Minnie Beveridge, and Miss Marjorie Press, also Mrs. M. McClement, Mrs. L. Wright, Mrs. M. Webb, Mrs. E. Fitz, Mrs. M. Benbow, Mrs. L. Nicholls, Mrs. A. Wilkin, the Misses Helen Cruickshank, Winnie Ellis, Marjorie Gibson, Bernice Harvey, Gertrude Cohen, Nona Rich, Virginia Ross, Elsie Richardson, Jean Smith and the honor guest's sister, Mrs. A. L. Cousins. Gifts were presented to Mrs. Welham by Mrs. Nicholls.

Soldiers' 'Mother' Reopens Old Stand

MONTREAL (CP) — Ma Heller, whose newsy letters helped keep Montreal alive in the minds of hundreds of Second World War soldiers, has reopened her restaurant.

More than 190 old-time friends attended the opening. Most of them were veterans with whom Ma used to correspond.

18 Victoria Daily Times
FRIDAY, DEC. 21, 1962

The west-end soda shop she and her husband opened more than 30 years ago became a favorite with teen-agers in the district. When war broke out she continued to keep in touch with her "boys" by mail. She recalls they had a standard closing to their letters: "Kiss all the girls for me, I'll take over when I get back."

of all the servicemen who visited the soda shop.

The walls of the new restaurant bear witness to the past. A glass case covers medals for bravery given to Ma Heller by the men awarded them. And an honor roll with nearly 600 names is beside it. It was given to her by the defence department and has the names of all the servicemen who visited the soda shop. Holiday hospitality reigns! Start your supper party with a sherried beef broth. To one can of condensed beef broth and one soup can water, add two tablespoons sherry. Heat a few minutes to blend flavors. Pour into glass mugs and garnish with an orange or lemon slice studded with cloves. Makes two to three servings.

Coat Hems Like Rope? Can Make Them Smooth "Dear Eunice Farmer: How do you hem a coat without it looking like a rope?" Mrs. G. McG. Dear Mrs. G. McG.: This time of year usually brings on a rash of letters about the hems of coats and suits. If you follow the simple instructions, you will be more than rewarded with a smooth, firm hem. Cut a strip of firm fabric about three inches wide on the bias grain. This should be catch-stitched to the fold line of the hem. Next, fold the hem of the coat in place and press carefully. Now catch-stitch the cut edge of the hem to the bias strip, not catching your stitches through to the coat. If the bias strip extends more than 1/2" past the edge of fabric, cut off the excess.

The bias strip may now be catch-stitched to each seam to hold in place. This will hold the hem in place until the lining is applied. The same technique is used in the hem of sleeves also.

Staff Party

Fifty staff members of the Canada Trust-Huron and Erie Mortgage Corporation and their wives and husbands will gather in the Net Loft this evening for their annual Christmas party. A smorgasbord will be followed by an evening of dancing.

ating standards in our modern world calls for the combined constructive efforts of all champions of Christianity. A man without God is not fully man.

"Together let us build a truly God-centred society in a spirit of mutual trust and sincere brotherly affection."

Earlier the bishop said:

"Church and state are not meant to struggle against one another but to enhance and perfect human society. . . the church is not against society, it is with society. To ignore the role of the church in society, to pretend that spiritual values do not exist is a form of self-debasement not far short of spiritual suicide."

'Home at Last'

The young bishop said he experienced "a most profound joy at being here in your midst—home at last."

He spoke after his installation by Most Rev. Martin M. Johnson, Coadjutor Archbishop of Vancouver, who represented Archbishop William Duke, unable to attend through illness.

In the second pew sat his widowed father, Raymond Peter De Roo, of St. Boniface, Man.; his brother, Father Cyril De Roo, of Winnipeg; and two sisters, Sister Mary Raymond and Mrs. Stanley Martinez and her husband from California.

Just in front of them, grave and dignified, were Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes and his aide, Cmdr. Garfield Dixon, and alongside, Archbishop Sexton and Archdeacon J. W. Forth in their robes of office.

Purple Train

The installation ceremony followed a solemn procession of clergy and laity from the bishop's residence at 740 View Street. Bishop De Roo wore his cappa magna—a purple train 10 feet long held by a choirboy.

Combined choirs of St. Andrew's Cathedral and the Sisters of St. Ann intoned Ecce Sacerdos Magnus and Oremus Pro Pontifice as the procession moved up the centre aisle.

Monsignor G. O. Penfold read the Papal Bull of appointment in Latin and this was repeated in English by Monsignor Michael O'Connell, vicar capitular of St. Andrew's.

The ceremony reached its climax when Bishop De Roo took his seat on the high throne at the left side of the altar, and was presented with the pastoral staff which made him head of the diocese.

Father O'Connell offered prayers for the bishop, who then gave his blessing.

Chief Shepherd

Ald. Michael Griffin, in evening dress, addressed the bishop on behalf of the laity. "It is with profound and abiding respect that we, the people of the diocese of Victoria, welcome your excellency as our chief shepherd."

"Our hearts are filled with pride, exaltation and thanksgiving that from this day forward we may look to a prelate of such sterling quality as our spiritual leader and ruler."

Ald. Griffin recalled that holy mass was first offered in St. Andrew's Cathedral on Oct. 30, 1892.

"On your elevation to this high office, we foretell a bright future for the church here on Vancouver Island. The heritage now reposed in you, by past endeavor, has been welded into a unified effort by clergy and laity alike, working together for the common good."

"God grant you the grace, the sustenance and the perseverance to build in charity on those lofty ideals which you envision now, as you accept your new and extremely heavy life-long responsibilities."

'Our Teacher'

In his welcome, Father O'Connell said:

"You are the apostle of Christ for Vancouver Island, sent to us by the Vicar of Christ, His Holiness Pope John XXIII. You are our teacher. The precious heavenly gift of divine truth will be yours to protect, to share and to diffuse."

Thirty-three clergymen of Vancouver Island then knelt and pledged obedience to Bishop De Roo.

Premier Bennett was represented at the service by Agriculture Minister Francis Richter, who was accompanied by Public Works Minister W. N. Chant and Education Minister Leslie Peterson.

The city of Victoria was represented by Acting Mayor Arthur Dowell.

Also present were Dr. W. H. Hickman, principal of Victoria College; Judge J. B. Clearihue, B.C. Liberal Leader Ray Perault, retired Rear-Admiral E. W. Finch-Noyes, and representatives of the Army, Navy, Air Force and the RCMP.

The Provincial Museum will be open to the public on the following days during the holiday season: Saturday, from 8.30 a.m. until 5 p.m.; Sunday, from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.; Saturday, December 29, from 8.30 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Sunday, 1 to 5 p.m.

54 PRIESTS GREET BISHOP

'Really Lovely Trip ... Glorious Scenery'

More than 300 persons, with a police escort from the ferry terminal, greeted Bishop Remi De Roo when he arrived at his residence, adjoining 70-year-old St. Andrew's Cathedral, Thursday afternoon.

"It was a really lovely trip," the 33-year-old bishop said. "I particularly enjoyed the ferry cruise from the mainland—the scenery is glorious."

Bishop De Roo was accompanied to Sidney by Archbishop Coadjutor Martin Johnson, deputizing for Archbishop William Duke, who is unwell.

NERVOUS SMILE

He smiled nervously at the welcoming crowds on View Street, but the brown eyes were wide and friendly.

Children from St. Ann's Academy, St. Patrick's and the Sacred Heart schools sang carols for half an hour before the bishop arrived with a police escort.

Big Woodwyn Farm Taken Off Market

The beautiful 285-acre Woodwyn Farm, a landmark in Central Saanich, has been taken off the real estate market and won't be sold as originally planned.

This was disclosed Thursday by Mrs. Ruth Woodward, owner, who with her husband, the late Hon. W. C. Woodward, former lieutenant-governor of B.C., developed the farm overlooking Brentwood Bay.

"It will be safe from subdivision as long as I am alive, and if taxes don't go up too far," she said. "If they hold the tax line where it is, I will be here a long time."

ATTACHED TO IT

"It was my home, my husband and I made it," she added. "I've become attached to it."

Civic officials and planners breathed a sigh of relief at the news that the farm would not be sold. They feared it would be bought and subdivided for homes.

It was on the market for more than a year with a price tag of $450,000.

The farm is known across Canada for its prize Aberdeen Angus beef cattle.

All Wage-Earners Pay Into Job Fund

OTTAWA — Everyone on wages or salary will pay into the unemployment insurance fund under the plan presented to the government Thursday by the Gill Royal Commission.

Contribution rates under the present plan would remain unchanged, but a new category would be added for those earning more than $80 a week. Contributions from this group—including high-salaried executives—was estimated at $1.05 a week.

The committee also said the fund should be operated on equal contributions from employers and employees—without any government contribution. Under the present plan, the government puts up 20 cents for every $1 contributed by employers and employees. This amounted to $35,000,000 in the 1961-62 fiscal year.

Also proposed was an increase in the rates of benefit to about 60 per cent of earnings for claimants with a dependant and to about 45 per cent of earnings for claimants without a dependant. The top benefit payment would be $48 a week for a jobless worker whose earnings had been $80 and who had a dependant.

This would be the ceiling for benefits—even for an employee who had been earning far more than $80 a week.

The maximum duration of benefits would be 26 weeks, not 52 weeks as allowed now. Insured workers, unable to find jobs after regular benefits ended, would qualify for help from the government's extended benefit fund. The rate of benefit would be the same as under the insurance plan but would be available up to a maximum of 39 weeks. If a worker was still jobless after using up his insurance benefits and the extended benefits, then his case would be considered individually and help provided on a basis of need.

Court Accepts Case Against South Africa

THE HAGUE (Reuters)—The International court ruled here today by eight votes to seven that it has jurisdiction in the case brought by Ethiopia and Liberia alleging that South Africa has violated her mandate over South-West Africa.

South Africa administers South-West Africa, a former German territory, under a mandate from the old League of Nations.

The World Court rejected four preliminary objections to its jurisdiction in the case, raised by South Africa and argued last October.

The case was initiated more than two years ago when Ethiopia and Liberia alleged South Africa had not "promoted to the utmost the material and moral well-being and social progress" of the people of South-West Africa.

Dief Arrives In Bahamas

Christmas Just Might Be White

If you had asked the weatherman Thursday, he might have gone out on a green limb as a Christmas probability.

Today he's not so sure, because of a sudden, dramatic break in the weather pattern flowing into the corner of B.C. from the north.

Now it looks like colder temperatures between now and Christmas Day. If they drop slowly, Christmas should be relatively mild and green—if they collapse suddenly, you can dream of a white Christmas.

Right now, it's a toss-up, says the official weatherman. But he does know now for sure that Saturday will be the shortest day of the year, marking the beginning of winter in the northern hemisphere.

At 15 minutes after midnight tonight, the sun will start its journey north from the Tropic of Capricorn, and the days will gradually become longer.

Epidemics Chronic In Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Two Cuban physicians who fled their homeland reported today there is "medical chaos" in Cuba.

Speaking as shipments of millions of dollars of medical supplies were prepared for possible shipment to Cuba in return for rebel invasion prisoners, Dr. Marcos Antonio Romeu of Havana, said in an interview: "There is a 90-per-cent shortage of foreign-made pharmaceuticals in Cuba. And there is an almost absolute absence in most categories of those manufactured in Cuba. Antibiotics are not even produced in Cuba nowadays."

Romeu fled Cuba by boat a few weeks ago.

Dr. Pablo Guerra Hernandez, who was a pediatrician in Havana Infants Hospital, said: "Epidemics in Cuba are becoming chronic. There are signs that the death rate is going up almost daily. This is because of scarcity of medicines and the undernourished state of the people due to food shortages. Child epidemics have caused deaths by the thousands."

Hernandez fled with Romeu.

Mrs. Dowell is the back-room girl behind The Times appeal for "Friendship Dollars for India."

At this time of year, when

NASSAU, Bahamas (CP)—Prime Minister, Diefenbaker arrived here by plane today from Ottawa to join President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan who concluded their Bahamas talks today.

Diefenbaker's RCAF jetliner touched down at Windsor Field on a bright sunny day with the temperature at 75 degrees.

The Canadian prime minister was greeted by the governor of The Bahamas, Sir Robert Stapledon, and a colorful special guard of honor of The Bahamas police force.

As Diefenbaker stepped from the plane the guard of honor began to play O Canada.

Diefenbaker walked forward from the landing ramp and received an official salute, then was greeted by Sir Robert.

He reviewed the guard, returned to a low platform where he received a second salute, then stepped to microphones and delivered a short address.

Diefenbaker said he planned to talk with Macmillan about "everything that has happened in the international sphere" since the Commonwealth prime minister's conference in London in September.

Diefenbaker said he also hoped for further discussions on his plan for a world trade conference.

He recalled that Kennedy had accepted the plan—put forward at the Commonwealth conference—in principle.

His main point on the ECM was that the Canadian government felt further commonwealth conferences should be held whenever Britain completed agreement on tariffs to be placed on goods affecting the present preferential tariff enjoyed by commonwealth countries.

Canada's stake in any move to heighten the tariff against entry of commonwealth goods to Britain, Mr. Diefenbaker was planning to emphasize again, was some $900 million in annual sales to Britain.

MRS. DOWELL... keeps books

Her biggest problem, she says, is "getting the books to balance with the money."

It takes about two hours every morning to prepare the daily list that is published in this paper. When it is done Mrs. Dowell rushes home to prepare lunch for her husband.

It's been like this every day for the past month. The only reason Mrs. Dowell goes to all this trouble is because, she says, "I believe in the USC. It does more good for the children of India than anything else."

Four years ago Mrs. Dowell heard a talk by the executive director of the USC, Dr. Lotta Hirschmanova. She joined the USC work group in Victoria.

This year she volunteered for the daily chore because "it was something that had to be done. I simply organized."

Polaris Weapons Offered France

NASSAU (AP)—President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan announced today a decision to create at once a nuclear armed force and put Polaris-armed British submarines in action under the North Atlantic Treaty Organization banner by 1970.

The far-reaching agreement to give the Western alliance a broadened nuclear shield takes effect in two stages:

1. The United States and Britain agreed to set aside immediately an undisclosed segment of their bomber forces for use by NATO which would decide the emergency missions and targets.

2. The United States agreed to provide Britain with intermediate-range Polaris missiles—minus warheads—for use on British submarines.

Earlier in London the British cabinet agreed to the plan on the U.K. role as a nuclear power.

A communique issued by the two leaders also said the president told Macmillan he has decided to cancel plans for production of the Skybolt air-to-ground missile which Britain had wanted for its nuclear bomber force.

The United States will assign to NATO one Polaris-armed submarine for each similar intermediate craft equipped by the British.

President Kennedy has sent a personal letter to President de Gaulle offering to provide France with Polaris missiles on the same terms as those agreed upon with Macmillan.

Britain to Provide Warheads

The earliest date at which Britain could begin buying American-made Polaris missiles would be 1970, since no especially equipped submarines could be built before then. Britain will pay for all missiles supplied but will not share U.S. development costs of $2,500,000,000.

The British will furnish their own Polaris warheads.

Both the United States and Britain placed one condition on commitment of nuclear forces to NATO. The two countries reserved the right to employ independently bombers and Polaris submarines assigned to NATO, in any case involving "supreme national interests."

The agreement represented a long step toward the solution of two problems which have plagued the two countries for many months:

1. To give Britain an acceptable substitute for the now-discarded Skybolt which would have been launched from Britain's Vulcan bombers. Macmillan insisted that Britain needed nuclear-capable missiles in order to preserve her status as a front-rank world power.

2. It marked a first step toward possible resolution of the problem of western European nations developing independent nuclear forces. The Nassau agreement provides a framework under which France, Britain and other Western allies can pool their nuclear punch under common direction.

A secondary feature of the agreement was a resolution that both leaders are of one mind "on the importance of increasing the effectiveness of their conventional forces on a world-wide basis"—something the United States has been seeking.

Macmillan rejected the Skybolt plan. It was understood he was leery of putting Skybolt in the British arsenal because nobody knew with certainty what the ultimate cost might be or whether an effective Skybolt could be developed.

settlement of other problems outstanding between the West and the Soviet Union."

The two Atlantic leaders paid particular attention to the present state of negotiations for a treaty to end nuclear tests. They reaffirmed their intention to seek agreement with Moscow on this issue "in the hope that this agreement would lead on to successful negotiation on wider issues of disarmament."

On the Common Market, the prime minister told President Kennedy about the present status of negotiations for British membership, and the president reaffirmed U.S. interest in "an early and successful outcome."

The two leaders also discussed the Chinese Communist attack on India with special consideration to the way the two governments might assist the Indian government "to counter this aggression."

Polaris Acceptance 'Face-Saving Twist'

LONDON (Reuters)—Deputy Labor party leader George Brown today described reported British acceptance of the Polaris missile for the abandoned Skybolt weapon as "the biggest face-saving twist in modern history."

London newspapers splashed news of the arrangement on their front pages.

In a statement on the three-day Bahamas talks between Prime Minister Macmillan and President Kennedy, Brown said:

"Five or six years ago labor urged the Tory government to go all out for Polaris. Then it would have made sense. But the Tories, after their disastrous Blue Streak fiasco, pinned every hope they had on Skybolt."

Centennial Flashback...

THIS DAY IN VICTORIA - 1862

DECEMBER 21

The steamships Robert Lowe and Tynemouth have been sold by Mr. Lindsay to parties in San Francisco who intend to run a line of first-class steamers between that city and Hongkong. They have also purchased the steamer Scotland which will run between San Francisco and Honolulu.

The mail steamer Sierra Nevada arrived in Esquimalt Harbor this morning with 30 passengers and 80 tons of cargo from San Francisco. She made the run in 63 hours—one of the quickest runs ever made on this route.

The electorate of Victoria approved a referendum permitting city council to borrow $5,000 to improve the conditions of the highways. The vote was 745.

M' Uncle Zeke sez he don't know about this white Christmas or green Christmas—he's already in th' red.

As th' old song has it—Nassau's in th' cold war ground.

Next, I s'pose, will be a Mona Lisa comic book.

Metchosin Carollers Modernize Old Custom

Fewer and fewer are the carollers who keep alive the old tradition of passing from house to house, filling the winter night with the lilt of Christmas song. But out at Metchosin there is a 20-voice choral group that has reinstated the practice and will again this year, go forth a-carolling on Christmas night. Being a rural area, the choristers have found it necessary to modernize the old custom. They travel from place to place—this year there will be seven stops—in two compact-size station wagons, in the back of one of which a small organ is installed.

Test Case Expected On Bingo

ALBERNI — A test case to determine the legality of bingo games is expected to result from closure of a bingo game here Wednesday.

The Alberni Athletic Association's game was raided and dispersal of about 160 players ordered.

Cpl. R. L. Purdy of Alberni detachment said Thursday that charges will probably be laid under the Gaming Act.

Bingo games have been a means of fund-raising for the AAA's hall maintenance, debt retirement and juvenile athletic program for many years.

The closure was carried out by police with politeness and courtesy.

One officer entered the hall and told the players that they were sorry to interrupt their game.

He said closure of the game was part of an investigation and asked players to leave by the door where another officer stood to take some of the names and addresses.

Some people were permitted to leave by another door to accelerate the clearing of the hall.

SCHOOL BUS WITHDRAWN

GANGES—Trustees of Gulf Islands School District have decided to withdraw school bus service from the Bay area at Vesuvius because portions of the road have been described as too narrow for safe operation.

At Christmas

we are taking time out to send along a big bundle of warmest good wishes, to friends and customers.

Tired of Toddlies? Try Treat of Ginger

By ARTHUR MAYSE

Christmas in Victoria wears a subtle tinge of the Orient, thanks to a group of long-term residents who haven't forgotten the wisdom of their ancestors.

Even Victoria-born and thoroughly Westernized members of the Chinese community know, for instance, that dwellers in a cool country should eat ginger, also, that lily bulbs are best planted in sand, and that the appropriate flower for December is the chrysanthemum.

Those lavish white, yellow and bronze pompons we glimpse on favored porches at Christmastime are grown by a band of elderly Chinese gardeners who came to Victoria in their youth, and in many instances, still serve the families they "adopted" when they got off the boat.

The loyalty these gentle old men offer and evoke is bone-deep. They're sweet, fussy, often tyrannical—and they probably nurture the finest chrysanthemums on earth.

One of these master gardeners is How Lin Fung Wai, who for the past 37 years and three months, has provided Mrs. Dave Spencer's gracious hilltop home at 2906 Cook Street with flowers.

How's gorgeous autumn

and winter 'mums are his and Mrs. Spencer's pride. He grew 350 pots this year, most of which have gone as gifts to family friends. Each spring—March for October blooms and May for his Christmas beauties—How plants selected cuttings from last year's stock in flats filled with a sand and compost.

When the plants are two or three inches high, he trims them to leave only the best of the flower-bearing stalks. His plants then go into large clay pots, to be watered, pruned of excess buds and fed with fertilizer of How's own mixing.

PASSED TO SONS

He learned his art from growers who were old when he was young, and is passing it on to Ronnie and Edward, the sons who Mrs. Spencer helped How bring with his wife, from China.

"How is my age," says Mrs. Spencer, "and I will be 75 this New Year's Eve."

For information on ginger and lily bulbs, traditional yule gifts of the Chinese vegetable truck pilot to customer friends, the man to see is Figgard Street merchant Jack Lee.

10,000 JARS

Mr. Lee, Victoria-born UBC graduate, imports from Kwantung Province a ton of dry bulk ginger each year and close to 10,000 jars of the tongue-nipping confection preserved in syrup.

But ginger, says Jack Lee, is more than a Christmas taste treat.

In Chinese lore, ginger is beneficial to health, and has water-purifying qualities. In a cold climate, it warms the blood. For this reason, old people need ginger more than the vigorous young, who are better advised to cool themselves with ginseng, another tubular root treasured by the Chinese apothecary.

The so-called Christmas lily is in rather short supply this year. Mr. Lee was able to import only 4,000 bulbs from Communist China, instead of his usual 10,000.

COUNT BACK

"Almost all the bulbs are bought to be given away," he explains. "A bulb takes from 30 to 40 days to flower, so you count back from the week you want it to bloom, and plant it accordingly. Always in damp sand, preferably in a cool basement. A week before you want the flowers to come out, shift the bulb to pebbles in water and bring it upstairs."

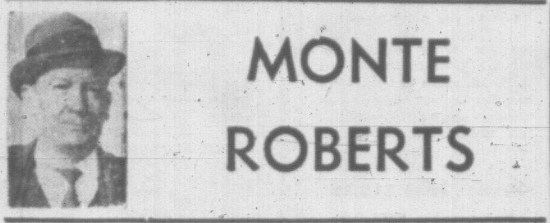

Correct blooming time for this member of the narcissus family is Chinese New Year, to be celebrated next Jan. 25.

Designation for 1963—which should be a lucky one—is "Year of the Rabbit."

HERE are three ingredients of Victoria's Orient-flavored Christmas: a Chinese lily bulb and preserved ginger, both imported, plus one small,

happy local product aged four. Robert is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lee, 2298 Lansdowne. (Times photos by Bill Halkett.)

MONTE ROBERTS

For the benefit of the vast minority who may be remotely interested, all I want for Christmas is to be editor of the letters to the editor column, for just one day, and no holds barred.

Like so:

Sir:

The only way out of the mess we are in is to embrace the principles of neotheosolcism.

Of course, being the tool of the powerful, entrenched forces which are so much against neotheosolcism, you will not dare to print this.

Ed. Note: Print what?

Sir:

The only way out of the mess we are in is to establish an antineothesolcismatic movement.

Of course, being the tool of the powerful, entrenched forces which are so much FOR neothesolcism, you will not dare print this.

Ed. Note: What mess?

Sir:

As a wife and mother, I must rise to protest the infamous deals Canada is making with Red China, selling wheat and barley and oats and rye, while we at home are hard put to afford a reasonable amount of rye, let alone all those other things the names of which I forget at the moment.

VERY INDIGNANT MOTHER.

Ed. Note: Have you tried comin' through, instead of goin' through, the rye?

Sir:

Christmas is much too commercial. The Big Interests have taken over. The True Spirit of Christmas is No More. This was never more in Evidence than This Year.

This Year, my children began making Rag Dolls for the Christmas Market last August. But they found this was Too Late. Not only did the Big Interests get Their Rag Dolls on the Market sooner, they undersold My Children all down the line.

Is there no Justice?

VERY INDIGNANT MOTHER OF NINE.

Ed. Note: No.

Sir:

I write with reference to a line which appeared in your paper, under the heading: "Traffic Fines."

"John Snrrff, $15, 31 miles per hour in 30' mile zone." I wish to strongly protest the publication of this item, and state I am not—repeat, NOT, the John Snrrff who was fined $15 for expediting the seed limit.

This has done unrepairable harm to my reputation, as my driving record shows only two impaired convictions, three reckless driving, five licence suspensions, five convictions for driving while under suspension, and assaulting a police officer in the course of his duties.

I demand a retraction.

JOHN (Just Plain Indignant) SNRRFF.

Ed. Note: Retraction granted.

HOW LIN FUNG WAI checks a few of his Yule blooms for unwanted buds or bugs. "Not my best," says the silver-haired gardener who for over 37 years has grown fine chrysanthemums for Mrs. Dave Spencer.

$50 Fines For Bulb Snatchers

Three youths who led police on a merry chase early this morning while snatching lights from Christmas trees on downtown streets were fined $50 each in police court.

They had stolen $4 worth of lights between them.

Hans Isdahl, 19, of 2618 Roseberry; Gary Brown, 19, of 451 Wilkinson, and Anthony Stones, 20, of 420 Springfield, all pleaded guilty.

"I am afraid I don't look upon this as a prank," Magistrate William Ostler told the accused when passing sentence.

"There are plenty of things you could do to help people who need it this time of year, if you have so much excess energy," he said.

STATE HEADS PLAN MESSAGES

The annual Commonwealth Christmas Message by Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II will be telecast at 10 a.m. Christmas Day to be followed by an address by Prime Minister Diefenbaker on Channels 2 and 6.

The program also will be carried on CBC radio (CJVI, 900 kc. and CBU, 690 kc.) at the same time.

The radio messages will be rebroadcast at 7:10 p.m. the same day and The Queen's message only will be telecast again on Channels 2 and 6 at 11:09 p.m.

Exam System Certain On Police Promotions

A new promotion system will be instituted for the city police department in the New Year, it was disclosed today.

The system approved by police commission will have two distinctive features:

A basic written examination which will have to be taken by all members wishing to become eligible for promotion;

A promotions board which will screen applicants for particular promotions and recommend its choices to Police Chief John Blackstock for final decision.

MODIFICATION

The new system is a modification of the plan favored by Mayor R. B. Wilson who doubles as police commission chairman.

He had hoped the policemen's union—which recently agitated for a promotions board—would agree to name representatives to the screening board as is done by the Vancouver police department. However, the local union declined direct participation.

Under the new system, all members of the force below rank of inspector will have the opportunity of joining the "promotion panel" by taking a voluntary written test to qualify.

Only those who make the panel will be able to apply for promotions when they become available.

These applicants will be screened by the promotions board—composed of the deputy chief, inspectors and representatives of the police commission.

Attorney General Robert Bonner said he was "delighted" to hear of the appointment of Judge Tyrwhitt-Drake.

ADDS LUSTRE

"He will add lustre to the county court and I am sure he will have the goodwill of all members of the bar. The opportunity for young and active members of the bar to reach the bench should be encouraged."

Judge Tyrwhitt-Drake, who is 40, is the grandson of Montague William Tyrwhitt-Drake, who came to Victoria from England in 1839 and served here as attorney-general and judge of the B.C. Supreme Court.

He is the son of the late Brian H. Tyrwhitt-Drake, who was Supreme Court registrar from 1900 to 1937.

AT ST. MICHAEL'S

Born in Victoria on Oct. 14, 1922, the new judge was educated at St. Michael's School for Boys, Victoria, Shawinigan Lake School, Victoria College and McGill University.

As a member of the Canadian Black Watch Regiment, he served with various British infantry battalions during the Second World War.

He was twice nominated as Conservative candidate for the B.C. Legislature in 1953 and 1956, but was unsuccessful.

Until his appointment as judge, he was a member of the law firm of Manzer, Drake, Wootton, Patterson and MacDonald.

After receiving his law degree from UBC, he was called to the bar of B.C. in 1949 and to the Ontario bar in 1950.

He is a member of the advisory boards of the Salvation Army and the Greater Victoria Art Gallery and has been a director of Victoria Symphony Society since 1959.

Judge Acclaims Appointment Of Successor

Appointment of Victorian lawyer Montague Tyrwhitt-Drake as judge of the county court here was received with acclamation today.

"I think it is an excellent choice," said Judge J. B. Clearhue, who retired as judge of the county court.

Thursday on reaching the age of 75, "I am very happy over Mr. Drake's appointment."

A former Rhodes Scholar, Judge Clearhue will continue his activities as Tyrwhitt-Drake chairman of Victoria College Council, a position he has held for 17 years.

Attorney General Robert Bonner said he was "delighted" to hear of the appointment of Judge Tyrwhitt-Drake.

Funeral Monday For Long-Time E and N Official

Maurice Hector Barry, assistant to the manager of the land department, Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway, died in St. Joseph's Hospital Thursday night at the age of 59.

"The land office will be closed on Monday out of respect for Mr. Barry," William M. Sloan, manager, said today.

Born at Cobble Hill, Mr. Barry had been with the land department 43 years and was known to most loggers on Vancouver Island.

Funeral services at Sands Mortuary Monday at 3 p.m. will be conducted by Canon George Biddle.

Mr. Barry, who lived at 3109 Glasgow Avenue, was a member of the Far West Lodge No. 1, Knights of Pythias; a life member of Gorge Vale Golf Club and the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans No. 12.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Regular field trips of the junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will be cancelled this weekend.

The Nature House at Francis Park will be open on Sunday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

City council Thursday ordered preparation of a bylaw to sell $245,000 debentures to raise the cash to complete acquisition of property for the civic precinct.

The debentures will be issued under the $350,000 bylaw passed by ratepayers last week.

Arbitration of a civic union grievance was adjourned Thursday at City Hall to Dec. 28.

Col. F. McLean of Vancouver, is chairman of the arbitration board hearing the city "outside staff" union complaint that a senior waterworks employee was passed over in appointment of a new foreman.

Also on the board are city representative George Wilkinson and union nominee Max Pierrotti.

Peter Howard Dootson, charged with attempted murder Oct. 19, was committed for trial in Higher Court on Thursday.

Commitment of the former psychiatric aide at the Wilkinson Road Mental Home came after the seventh sitting of his preliminary hearing.

Dr. Brodie Cupples told Saanich police court that his patient, 64-year-old Robert Robinson, will not be able to testify for at least three months.

The new B.C. director on the board of the Canadian Kennel Club is Mrs. J. W. Anderson of 3026 McNally Road.

Mrs. Anderson, who at one time was president of the Hong Kong Kennel Club, is a breeder of basenjis, the dogs from the Congo that never bark.

She has lived in Victoria since 1951. The Canadian Kennel Club is the principal dog owners' association in this country.

The 57-voice B.C. Telephone Choir, conducted by Leslie W. Monk, will appear tonight at 7 o'clock on Channel 2 in a half-hour of televised Christmas music. Each member of the choir will be costumed in a manner appropriate to the era of Charles Dickens—the mid 1800's.

The choir will also be heard over radio station CJVI (900 kc.) Sunday afternoon at 4.

Saanich police are looking for witnesses to an accident Wednesday evening at Cedar Hill Cross Road and Blenkinsop which sent a 15-year-old cyclist to hospital, with abrasions.

Robert Palmer, of 3959 Cedar Hill Cross Road, was thrown from his bicycle when in collision with a car at about 5:15 p.m. He was released from hospital after treatment.

The RCAF mess at Quadra and Yates will hold open house on New Year's Day from 11 to 12 noon. It will not be restricted to invited guests, as reported earlier.

FIVE DAYS OF FREEDOM FOR 7,000.

A five-day Christmas holiday starts tonight for some 7,000 people in Greater Victoria who work for various levels of government.

Federal, provincial, civic and municipal employees will quit work tonight and they won't come back until next Thursday morning.

But they'll have a chance to do that last-minute Christmas shopping on Monday, Christmas Eve, because the banks and stores will be open.

Civil servants, except for a few employees in essential posts such as hospitals, are off for five days.

All Greater Victoria municipalities are following suit by agreement.

Did the person who found the purse need the $90 more than the Soderman family?

Mrs. John Soderman of Munn Road, Langford, is the mother of seven children ranging in age from 1½ to 13 years.

Her husband is unable to work at his job of window-washer because of an ear condition for which he is going to have an operation. It is hoped the operation will restore the balance he must have for his work.

Mrs. Soderman was in town last Friday shopping for gifts and food for her family for Christmas.

WELFARE PAYMENT

She had $90 in her purse, some of it in welfare payment and some from her monthly family allowance cheque.

The purse was heavy and she placed it in the buggy she was pushing one-and-a-half-year-old Mary.

Either Mary kicked it out or some shopper in the crowds picked it out of the pram.

Either way, it must have been in the possession of someone.

There were identification papers in the purse. But in the week since its loss, nothing has been sent the Sodermans.

ALL THEY HAD

So they ask: Does someone need it more than we?

The $90 was all the Sodermans had.

He has been unemployed nearly a year.

Provincial welfare officials say the Sodermans will not go hungry.

But they are unable to provide the gifts Mrs. Soderman had planned for the children. One person has come forward on hearing of the family's plight.

A woman, who wished to remain anonymous, inquired of the Times on the state of the family, and on hearing of their need, has sent $5 to Mr. Soderman's mother, Mrs. Ada Soderman, at 112 Dallas Road.

It was sent the grandmother of the seven children because their Munn Road home is remote and possibly would not be reached by mail in time for Christmas.

FOR GIFTS

Grandmother Soderman said today she would see the money was spent on presents for the children.

"John, he's 13, is hockey-mad," she said. "I know he was going to get a hockey stick before this happened."

The other children, Bumby, 12; Judy, 10; Bonnie, 8; Gary, 6; Terry, 5, and the baby Mary, needed clothing more than anything else, she said.

"But I suppose they'd rather have dolls and books, and things like that," Mrs. Soderman added.

Civil Defence

Mother Organizes Petticoat Brigade

Organization of the first petticoat rescue brigade in B.C.—if not all Canada—is under way by Victoria-Esquimalt civil defence.

Mainspring of the effort is a versatile mother of one, Mrs. Winifred M. MacLeod, a recent arrival to Victoria from Prince Edward Island, who has passed federal rescue course at Civil Defence College, Arnprior.

In addition to being a qualified heavy rescue instructor, Mrs. MacLeod has had courses in civil defence orientation, first aid and radiation monitoring, is a nurse's aide and a member of the reserve army.

During the Second World War she served with the RAF women's division and the Canadian Women's Army Corps.

JANUARY START

Co-ordinator V. S. Godfrey said the 10-week course is being set up for a start in early January. Sessions will be at CD headquarters, 1840 Blanshard, and an open area where teams can practice.

They will be held one evening a week, probably Tuesdays.

Mr. Godfrey said 20-30 candidates will be sought, from the age group 16-40, who will be required to pass a medical examination for fitness.

CANVASSED

High schools, the YWCA, women's clubs and other groups will be canvassed for participants.

Mr. Godfrey said the rescue course will not be quite as strenuous as the one given to men, but it would remain basically the same.

Mrs. MacLeod and rescue training officer Clint Eotheringham will share instruction duties, with assistance from Frank Burrows.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Why are only members of the Press Gallery, allowed to take a pad and pencil into a meeting of the legislature? D.B.

A. The tradition dates back to the early years of British Parliament, even before there were newspaper's such as we know them today.

The first "reporter" of Parliament was the Clerk of the House, who was appointed by its members because they were afraid their legislation would be altered by the King or perverted in the early newsheets posted in public places. Subsequently the right to decide who could report proceedings rested with the Speaker, and every year, at the opening of a session in British Columbia a resolution is passed reaffirming his authority.

The Speaker has designated only the Press Gallery as reporters. He could, if he wished, extend the privilege, or curtail it.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. But will attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

Christmas
Just Might Be White

If you had asked the weatherman Thursday, he might have gone out on a green limb as a Christmas probability.

Today he's not so sure, because of a sudden, dramatic break in the weather pattern flowing into the corner of B.C. from the north.

Now it looks like colder temperatures between now and Christmas Day. If they drop slowly, Christmas should be relatively mild and green—if they collapse suddenly, you can dream of a white Christmas.

FINAL

Mystery Disease Kills 11 Children

FORT VERMILION, Alta. (CP)—Investigations continued in efforts to identify a mysterious ailment that has swept through this northern Alberta area, health authorities said today.

Eleven children have died during the outbreak. A provincial health department doctor, the local doctor and an Indian health service nurse have taken water samples from creeks in the area, 340 miles northwest of Edmonton, and the samples were undergoing examination for chemical and bacteriological content.

Deadline Set on Hockey Trade

VANCOUVER (CP)—Coach Chuck Rayner of Edmonton Flyers said today if two-Pittsburgh Hornets forwards do not report by 7 a.m. a four-for-four player deal is off.

Rayner, here for a western Hockey League game with Vancouver Canucks, said Pittsburgh general manager Baz Bastien promised that the players would be here.

"I have now gone two games without them (Edmonton lost both) and tonight is my deadline."

U.S. Aids Fight on Polio Epidemic

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is airlifting 200,000 doses of vaccine, two portable respirators and two teams of medical specialists to help fight a polio epidemic in British Guiana.

Canada Recognizes Yemen Regime

OTTAWA (UPI)—Canada today recognized the republican government of the Yemen.

The United States recognized the government, which overthrew the monarchy Sept. 26, earlier this week. Britain so far has withheld recognition.

Strike Hits Newsprint Sales

MONTREAL (CP)—New York's newspaper strike means a loss of about 20,000 tons of newsprint sales a week, newsprint industry sources said today.

They said this is about 20 per cent of total Canadian newsprint shipments to the United States, but few mills report a clear picture of the effect of the strike.

However, they say that if the strike continues some mills may have to cut production. The strike began Dec. 8.

Montreal Bandit Holds Hostage

MONTREAL (CP)—A bandit armed with a sub-machine gun was holding a shoe company employee as hostage late today following an attempted payroll robbery.

Two bandits were captured by police and one employee of the Slater Shoe Company was shot in the chest.

About 100 policemen and the police department's canine squad were sent to the area to surround the building and try to flush the bandit out.

All Wage-Earners
Pay Into Job Fund

OTTAWA—Everyone on wages or salary will pay into the unemployment insurance fund under the plan presented to the government Thursday by the Giff Royal Commission.

Contribution rates under the present plan would remain unchanged, but a new category would be added for those earning more than $80 a week. Contributions from this group—including high-salaried executives—was estimated at $1.05 a week.

The committee also said the fund should be operated on equal contributions from employers and employees—without any government contribution. Under the present plan, the government puts up 20 cents for every $1 contributed by employers and employees. This amounted to $35,000,000 in the 1961-62 fiscal year.

Also proposed was an increase in the rates of benefit to about 60 per cent of earnings for claimants with a dependant and to about 45 per cent of earnings for claimants without a dependant. The top benefit payment would be $48 a week for a jobless worker whose earnings had been $80 and who had a dependant.

This would be the ceiling for benefits—even for an employee who had been earning far more than $80 a week.

The maximum duration of benefits would be 26 weeks, not 32 weeks as allowed now. Insured workers unable to find jobs after regular benefits ended would qualify for help from the government's extended benefit fund. The rate of benefit would be the same as under the insurance plan but would be available up to a maximum of 39 weeks.

If a worker was still jobless after using up his insurance benefits and the extended benefits, then his case would be considered individually and help provided on a basis of need.

ECM TOPIC

John D
Reaches Bahamas

NASSAU, Bahamas (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker arrived here by plane today from Ottawa to join President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan who concluded their Bahamas talks today.

Diefenbaker's RCAF jetliner touched down at Windsor Field on a bright sunny day with the temperature at 75 degrees.

The Canadian prime minister was greeted by the governor of The Bahamas, Sir Robert Stapleton, and a colorful special guard of honor of The Bahamas police force.

As Diefenbaker stepped from the plane the guard of honor began to play O Canada.

Diefenbaker walked forward from the landing ramp and received an official salute, then was greeted by Sir Robert.

He reviewed the guard, returned to a low platform where he received a second salute, then stepped to microphones and delivered a short address.

Diefenbaker said he planned to talk with Macmillan about "everything that has happened in the international sphere" since the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference in London in September.

Diefenbaker said he also hoped for further discussions on his plan for a world trade conference.

He recalled that Kennedy had accepted the plan—put forward at the Commonwealth conference—in principle.

His main point on the ECM was that the Canadian government felt further commonwealth conferences should be held whenever Britain completed agreement on tariffs to be placed on goods affecting the present preferential tariff enjoyed by commonwealth countries.

Canada's stake in any move to heighten the tariff against entry of commonwealth goods to Britain, Mr. Diefenbaker was planning to emphasize again, was some $900 million in annual sales to Britain.

Parks Work
For 1,080

OTTAWA (CP)—This year's winter works program in national parks will cost $2,000,000 and provide seasonal jobs for about 1,080 workers, the northern affairs department announced today.

This winter's projects will include trail-clearing, camp site extensions, picnic sites, sewer and water lines. Work began Dec. 15 in many parks and will last until March 31.

PLEDGE OF OBEDIENCE

Clergy of Vancouver Island pledge obedience to Most Rev. Remi De Roo after majestic ceremonies marking his installation as 13th Roman Catholic Bishop of Victoria in St. Andrew's Cathedral Thursday night. Two-hour ceremonies were watched by more than 800. (Strickland Photo.)

NEW BISHOP CITES CHALLENGE

'Man Without God Is Not Fully Man'

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

In a ceremony rich in color and tradition, Bishop Remi De Roo was installed as the 13th Roman Catholic Bishop of Victoria Thursday night.

But with all its splendor and pageantry—the radiant altar, the purple robes, the white plumes and drawn swords of the Knights of Columbus—the slim, modest figure of the new bishop dominated the scene.

All of the 800 devotees and spectators in St. Andrew's Cathedral were touched by his grave young dignity, relieved now and then by a quiet smile bordering on the humorous (as when a young priest dropped a document).

Co-Operation

And they were moved by his dramatic appeal to churches outside the Roman Catholic faith. He said:

"To all my fellow citizens and brothers, and in a special manner to those who, though separate from the Catholic Church, share with us the glorious title of Christians, I offer my co-operation; so that the word of God may be ever better known and loved and that the influence of Christ may continue to penetrate every sphere of activity."

Archbishop Harold Sexton, primate of the Anglican Church in British Columbia, and men and women of other denominations listened intently to his words.

From the moment he set foot in Victoria—at 3:10 in the afternoon—it was clear that the city had acquired an important personality in 38-year-old Bishop De Roo.

"He's a prince of a fellow," said one of the staff at St. Andrew's Cathedral. "He has a way of making everybody feel they are important to him."

This was evident at the installation service, when Vancouver Island clergy knelt to kiss the bishop's ring. In every case Father De Roo leaned forward slightly and smiled a little nervously, as if over-anxious to co-operate.

But as the colorful ritual unfolded, in a blend of Latin and English, it became evident that Bishop De Roo had a firm, clear singing voice—and a firm speaking voice, too.

There was no trace of hesitation or indecision in his formal address.

"We must continue as pioneers," he said, "ready to dedicate our every effort to the survival of the lasting spiritual values."

"The challenge of deterioration," he said, "is the greatest challenge of our time."

'Friendship Dollars'

Her Balancing Act Saves Lives

Mrs. Shirley Dowell says she used to "waste a lot of time" every morning drinking coffee with her friends.

But she hasn't been doing this for the past month. Instead she has been one of the hardest working and probably the best organized housewife in Victoria.

Mrs. Dowell is the back-room girl behind The Times appeal for "Friendship Dollars for India."

Polaris Weapons
Offered France

NASSAU (AP)—President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan announced today a decision to create at once a nuclear armed force and put Polaris-armed British submarines in action under the North Atlantic Treaty Organization banner by 1970.

The far-reaching agreement to give the Western alliance a broadened nuclear shield takes effect in two stages:

1. The United States and Britain agreed to set aside immediately an undisclosed segment of their bomber forces for use by NATO which would decide the emergency missions and targets.

2. The United States agreed to provide Britain with intermediate-range Polaris missiles—minus warheads—for use on British submarines.

Earlier in London the British cabinet agreed to the plan on the U.K. role as a nuclear power.

A communique issued by the two leaders also said the president told Macmillan he has decided to cancel plans for production of the Skybolt air-to-ground missile which Britain had wanted for its nuclear bomber force.

The United States will assign to NATO one Polaris-armed submarine for each similar undersea craft equipped by the British.

President Kennedy has sent a personal letter to President de Gaulle offering to provide France with Polaris missiles on the same terms as those agreed upon with Macmillan.

Britain to Provide Warheads

The earliest date at which Britain could begin buying American-made Polaris missiles would be 1970, since no especially equipped submarines could be built before then. Britain will pay for all missiles supplied but will not share U.S. development costs of $2,500,000,000.

The British will furnish their own Polaris warheads.

Both the United States and Britain placed one condition on commitment of nuclear forces to NATO. The two countries reserved the right to employ independently bombers and Polaris submarines assigned to NATO, in any case involving "supreme national interests."

The agreement represented a long step toward the solution of two problems which have plagued the two countries for many months.

1. To give Britain an acceptable substitute for the now-discarded Skybolt which would have been launched from Britain's Vulcan bombers. Macmillan insisted that Britain needed nuclear-capable missiles in order to preserve her status as a front-rank world power.

2. It marked a first step toward possible resolution of the problem of western European nations developing independent nuclear forces. The Nassau agreement provides a framework under which France, Britain and other Western allies can pool their nuclear punch under common direction.

A secondary feature of the agreement was a resolution that both leaders are of one mind "on the importance of increasing the effectiveness of their conventional forces on a world-wide basis"—something the United States has been seeking. Macmillan rejected the Skybolt plan. It was understood he was leery of putting Skybolt in the British arsenal because nobody knew with certainty what the ultimate cost might be or whether an effective Skybolt could be developed.

Hounddog Missile Turned Down

The president also offered Britain the Hounddog, a relatively short-range air-to-ground missile. Macmillan and his advisors did not want Hounddog because of technical difficulties in adapting it to British use.

The communique on Kennedy's and Macmillan's agreement said they assessed the significance of the agreement in this way:

"In strategic terms, this defence is indivisible and it is their conviction that in all ordinary circumstances of crisis or danger, it is this very unity which is the best protection of the west."

The president and the prime minister also discussed a wide range of other topics, including East-West relations in the aftermath of the October Cuban crisis, and the communique said they "joined in the hope that a satisfactory resolution of this

Court Accepts Case Against South Africa

THE HAGUE (Reuters)—The International Court ruled today by eight votes to seven that it has jurisdiction in the case brought by Ethiopia and Liberia alleging that South Africa has violated her mandate over South-West Africa.

South Africa administers South-West Africa, a former German territory, under a mandate from the old League of Nations.

The World Court rejected four preliminary objections to its jurisdiction in the case, raised by South Africa and argued last October.

The case was initiated more than two years ago when Ethiopia and Liberia alleged South Africa had not "promoted to the utmost the material and moral well-being and social progress" of the people of South-West Africa.

Polaris Acceptance 'Face-Saving Twist'

LONDON (Reuters)—Deputy Labor party leader George Brown today described British acceptance of the Polaris missile for the abandoned Skybolt weapon as "the biggest face-saving twist in modern history."

London newspapers splashed news of the arrangement on their front pages.

In a statement on the three-day Bahamas talks between Prime Minister Macmillan and President Kennedy, Brown said:

... NUCLEAR SHIELD

crisis might open the way to settlement of other problems outstanding between the West and the Soviet Union.

The two Atlantic leaders paid particular attention to the present state of negotiations for a treaty to end nuclear tests. They reaffirmed their intention to seek agreement with Moscow on this issue "in the hope that this agreement would lead on to successful negotiation on wider issues of disarmament."

On the Common Market, the prime minister told President Kennedy about the present status of negotiations for British membership, and the president reaffirmed U.S. interest in "an early and successful outcome."

The two leaders also discussed the Chinese Communist

"If the stories from The Bahamas are true, we will be faced with the biggest face-saving twist in modern history, and if the Tories bring it before the House (of Commons) we will tell them they are cheating again."

"Five or six years ago labor urged the Tory government to go all out for Polaris. Then it would have made sense. But the Tories, after their disastrous Blue Streak fiasco, pinned every hope they had on Skybolt."

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Two Cuban physicians who fled their homeland and reported today there is "medical chaos" in Cuba.

Speaking as shipments of millions of dollars of medical supplies were prepared for possible shipment to Cuba in return for rebel invasion prisoners, Dr. Marcos Antonio Romeo of Havana, said in an interview:

"There is a 90-per-cent shortage of foreign-made pharmaceuticals in Cuba. And there is an almost absolute absence in most categories of those manufactured in Cuba. Antibiotics are not even produced in Cuba now."

Romeo fled Cuba by boat a few weeks ago.

Dr. Pablo Guerra Hernandez, who was a pediatrician in Havana Infants Hospital, said: "Epidemics in Cuba are becoming chronic. There are signs that the death rate is going up almost daily. This is because of scarcity of medicines and the undernourished state of the people due to food shortages. Child epidemics have caused deaths by the thousands."

Hernandez fled with Romeo.

Sterilization Ban Denied by Lawyer

VANCOUVER (CP)—A lawyer says there is no law that forbids sterilization of persons in British Columbia.

The president of the British Columbia division of the Canadian Medical Association says his association regards sterilization of men and women for other than a sound medical reason illegal.

Gordon Dowling and Dr. William McClure were commenting on a newspaper story which said an Edmonton doctor performs five sterilization operations a week on healthy married men.

Mr. Dowling said after research he could find no law prohibiting sterilization so far as criminal law is concerned.

"And it would hardly be an assault or trespass where the operation was properly consented to and the release given to doctor by both husband and wife."

"In provincial statutes there is no reference to it other than the Sexual Sterilization Act dealing with inmates of mental institutions, which permits sterilization of mental defectives after proper inquiry by a board of eugenics."

He said except where a doctor had not obtained permission from a patient and his wife he can find no cases where doctors have been liable for damages for such an operation.

"8,000 Done In Vancouver"

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Vancouver paper says 10 Vancouver doctors regularly perform operations to sexually sterilize married men.

A doctor who asked that his name be withheld was quoted as saying that he and his nine colleagues have performed 8,000 such operations in the last 10 years.

"Another 10,000 Vancouver men have gone to Seattle or Bellingham because they wrongly believed it was against the law to perform this operation in Canada," he added.

TV Market Weak

OTTAWA (CP)—The Board of Broadcast Governors said today that conditions in smaller markets, with one or two exceptions, do not offer the prospect of establishing further "second" local television stations at this time.

"The medical association has never specified what law or statement of the law is the source of their opinion so far as other statutes or case law precedent."

Dr. McClure said in a telephone interview from Mission said the association has been told by the best legal advice that "we have not a scrap of protection whatsoever in the courts."

He said he knows of several men from his community who have gone to Bellingham or Seattle for a perfectly legal sterilization operation.

'Reasonable Doubt' Brings Dismissal

A charge of attempted theft against Alfie A. Hulbert, 99 George West, was dismissed in city police court Thursday because there was "reasonable doubt" as to his guilt.

Hulbert was charged with attempting to rifle the till at Al's Service Station, 1700 Hillside, about 3:20 a.m. Dec. 5.

He has testified he was looking for the "vashroom key" when spotted by attendant Edward Stockand in the station office.

He said he was not punching the keys of the cash register as the attendant said, but had tripped on a small step leading into the office and fallen against the till.

He claimed he was intoxicated at the time.

Magistrate William Ostler said the situation was "highly suspicious to say the least," but the explanation of the accused "might reasonably be true."

He dismissed as absurd, however, Hulbert's claim when apprehended by police at the corner of Hillside and Cedar Hill Cross Road an hour later, that he was waiting for a taxi.

ALDERMEN TO INSPECT CITY POLICE STATION

Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood Thursday said he would arrange a tour of the city police building for city council so they could see for themselves "that the building needs a facelift."

He joined with Mayor R. B. Wilson in convincing council to approve a city police commission recommendation that an architect be engaged to survey what structural alterations should be carried out to improve the building.

B.C. Hires Overseer On Peace River Dam

B.C. Hydro has hired a construction expert as a special B.C. Hydro headquarters in Vancouver. He will make frequent trips to the site of the power project near Hudson Hope, where work will start next spring on the main Portage Mountain dam.

Mr. Morris will work out of B.C. Hydro headquarters in Vancouver. He will make frequent trips to the site of the power project near Hudson Hope, where work will start next spring on the main Portage Mountain dam.

He has been hired away from Perini Pacific Ltd., the big construction firm which has been working on such government projects as the Port Man Bridge.

Mr. Morris was general manager for the firm. His new title will be construction manager for B.C. Hydro.

"This appointment will bring to the Peace project the practical experience that will be complementary to our engineering groups," Dr. Shrum said.
